SYMBOLS DESCRIBING THE LOCATION OF MANUSCRIPTS.

Following the abbreviation which gives the character of the particular manuscript calendared, will be found a symbol fixing the location of the manuscript in the Archives of the Museum. Where a single letter or combination of letters is used, such as "A" or "SM," the reference is to a case in the central collection. The figure following gives the number of the folder in the case. Thus, "B-16" refers to case B, folder 16. Where more than one paper is included in a folder, the number of each paper is given. Thus, "B-37-8" is case B, folder 37, manuscript 8. A small numeral following the case letter refers to the serial case, as "B₂," that is, the second case in series B.

The abbreviations "Va," "Ala," "Mo," etc., refer to the various State collections, while the numerals following give the case or exhibit number. Thus, "NC-247-3" would be, North Carolina collection, exhibit 247, manuscript number 3.

INTRODUCTION.

Inasmuch as the present volume marks the beginning of a new venture in the collection of source material relating to the War between the States, it is proper that the nature, need and scope of the undertaking should be stated. For some years students of Confederate history have felt the need of systematic and thorough co-operation in the collection of sources for several reasons. In the first place, in consequence of the death of many participants in the war, numerous collections of papers have fallen into the hands of persons unconscious of their value and unable properly to preserve them. For instance, virtually the entire correspondence of a prominent Confederate general was condemned to the waste-heap by his heirs, who did not suspect the character of some of the manuscripts. Fortunately, these were rescued and have since been properly repaired and examined; but instances of this character are not infrequent. Other manuscripts have suffered a fate hardly less disastrous, being left to molder in garrets or to rot in cellars, until they have become practically illegible, and are useless to the historical student.

Furthermore, the private papers of leaders of the Confederacy are scattered throughout the South in such a manner as to make them virtually inaccessible to the average student. The investigator who wishes to collect material regarding Jefferson Davis, for example, will find his letters in at least a dozen libraries and archives, not to mention the fact that numerous important papers are in unknown private hands.

Again, while various Confederate leaders, military and civil, have published their memoirs, there have been but two attempts at systematic collection. For some thirty years the Southern Historical Society has issued an annual volume of Papers, rich in valuable material, but constituting, in their entirety, a very small portion of the manuscripts extant in the South. The second attempt was the publication, by the United States Government, of the Official Records of the War of the Rebellion, including an enormous mass of material. While eminently fair to the South, and truly monumental in character, the importance of the Records may readily be overestimated. The very magnitude of the task rendered close attention to minor details practically impossible, and the plan of the work necessarily excluded much that was vital to the history of the Confederacy.

Accordingly, in the spring of 1907 a plan was agreed upon, whereby this important undertaking was confided to the Confederate Memorial Literary Society, in view of the unusual facilities possessed by that organization, and to its previous success along similar lines. The Southern Historical Manuscripts Commission was therefore formed, and was instructed by the Society to outline some working plan for the collection of material and to make a beginning in the publication of new records.

The Commission believes that its operations should not be confined to the period covered by the war, but should take into consideration the years immediately preceding, and the period of reconstruction following the war. In dealing with material relating to the ante-bellum period, it was disclosed that much might be done in collecting sources on two important subjects—State Rights and Slavery. The monographs which have appeared on the former of these subjects show what may be there accomplished, and it is believed that further study of the doctrine in other States will be equally successful. The printed material for this subject can be obtained in most large libraries of the country, but private manuscripts of leading men in the various States can be secured only with the greatest difficulty. As to slavery, adequate material cannot be had at present for the study of either its political, economic or social aspect. Even the laws of slavery, state and municipal, have never been thoroughly codified, and the "comparative method" employed by Hurd has received little attention since his day. The economic side of slavery is even less understood. A glance at the most recent general work on slavery will show that the present results on the subject are based on no more trustworthy authorities than census returns and the observations of hasty travelers; but a careful writer has demonstrated what light may be thrown on the subject by an examination of sources which are essentially local. It is hardly probable that all the records of plantation finance have been destroyed, and the publication of the actual receipts and expenditures of half a dozen farms would throw much light on the larger subject. The Commission proposes to make an extended search for records of this character, and to publish such material as is collected.

It is evident that many problems await investigation in connection with the war period. In the first place, material on the actual formation of the Confederacy is sadly lacking, and the inner workings of the Montgomery Convention await investigation. One particular class of possible sources suggests itself in this connection. The members of the Convention and of the Provisional Congress must have written many letters to their families and friends. If any of these can be recovered, they may give important information on obscure points, as did the Cobb letters which recently appeared in the publication of the Southern History Association.

Again, material on the later legislative and executive history of the Confederacy has been greatly neglected. As regards the former, some attempt should be made, first of all, to secure some connected and accessible reports of the debates in the Confederate Congress. It is true that the more important debates in the House of Representatives, and most of the debates in the Senate, were behind closed doors; but despite this fact, a collection of the reports of newspaper correspondents and of letters of Congressmen would appreciably add to the existing information regarding many important enactments. Material on the workings of the Confederate Cabinet and on the movements of the presidential and of the anti-administration parties, might likewise bring valuable facts to light; and a close study of the executive departments would certainly yield valuable results.

Another great field of investigation, and one in which the Commission proposes to work, is social life during the period of the Confederacy. The patient sufferings of the non-combatants, the quiet demeanor of the slaves, the temper of the press—these were foremost among the forces which contributed to the maintenance of the Southern armies in the field, and are deserving of close analysis. The materials for such study are obvious and can be gathered in great numbers by concerted effort.

In connection with military operations, it must not be supposed the Official Records contain all the existing material. There are, for example, several gaps in the correspondence there published, notably in the executive correspondence of 1861-62, and in the confidential communications to the President from generals in the field. It is perhaps useless to hope that these losses may be recovered, even in part; but occasionally a missing paper is found. Certainly no effort should be spared to make an exhaustive search.

Moreover, the Official Records do not contain adequate material on the organization of the military bureaux of enrollments, conscription, ordnance, subsistence and the like. It is submitted that material should be collected regarding these bureaux, since a thorough knowledge of the operations of at least some of them is essential to a correct understanding of any campaign. Ordnance transportation, for example, in the Pennsylvania campaign of 1863, and Subsistence in the Appomattox campaign were hardly second to any other factors in determining the final outcome.

In like manner military topography demands attention, and an effort should be made to accumulate more war maps. The atlas published with the Official Records was a most important addition to the material on military operations, but it contained comparatively few Confederate maps. Others are known to exist, and should either be reproduced or placed where they may be readily consulted by investigators.

Nor should the history of particular commands be neglected. It is a truism of military history that the esprit de corps of an army depends on the spirit of each particular command, and the previous career of victory or defeat of even a single regiment may sometimes be important. Viewed in this light only, the labor involved in writing the history of a particular brigade, for instance, may be well spent, if the only result should be to determine the exact strength and spirit of the command at a critical time. The materials for this class of investigation are not to be found in the Official Records, though they certainly exist in private hands.

Finally, material should be collected for military biography. It is useless to emphasize the importance of an intimate acquaintance on the part of the investigator with the personal characteristics and methods of the great generals of the period; only through their private as well as their official papers, can these be disclosed.

In connection with the subject of reconstruction, the Commission believes that emphasis should be placed upon social and economic problems and conditions, and it therefore intends to collect material on these subjects. The principal political papers relating to reconstruction have already been collected and printed in accessible form.

In thus outlining the subjects upon which it proposes to collect material, the Commission would not intimate that these are the only matters that should be treated; on the other hand, it is impossible to foresee the direction that future research will pursue. The Commission merely intends, in the above outline, to indicate some of the more important aspects of the subject that remain to be considered.

With these aims in view, then, the Commission believes that its work should be, first, to locate, examine and report on large or inaccessible collections; secondly, to procure originals where possible or accurate copies and to deposit the same in the library of the Confederate Museum, Richmond, Virginia, where they may be consulted by all students; thirdly, to publish exhaustive reports of particular collections, when deemed sufficiently important.

The Society realizes that this work will require many years, and that its success at any time depends on the support of all persons interested in Southern history. But relying on the loyalty of the Southern people, the Society appeals to them to deposit their papers in the fire-proof Museum, where they may remain as a lasting memorial of those whose deeds they record, and where, at the same time, they are assured early publication and distribution to historical students. Representing as it does, no particular State, but standing for the entire South, the Museum seems the most appropriate place for the collection and preservation of Confederate papers. Certainly without some such system of co-operation as that proposed, the unpublished records of the Confederacy will be lost beyond reclamation in the course of another generation.

In carrying out the further instructions of the Society, the Commission begins its work by the publication in this volume of the manuscripts already collected by the Society and now in the Confederate Museum. These represent the gradual accumulations of a decade, and while there have been notable gifts of large collections, the greater part of the papers have come in a few at a time and from many different sources.

This Calendar lists all of these manuscripts, with a few exceptions that should be noted: Mrs. Varina Davis gave the Museum a type-written copy of the executive letter-book of President Davis, but as most of the important papers therein are printed, and as a movement is already on foot to publish the full correspondence of Mr. Davis, it was not thought expedient to deal here with this material. Again, the letter-book and order-book of Brigadier-General W. N. Pendleton, now in the Museum, have been but briefly mentioned in this volume. These manuscripts are extensive and extremely valuable, and their publication has been deferred to a later time, when it is intended to issue them in their entirety. Finally, the Florida collection contains some important papers and records of the Lake City General Hospital and of Dr. A. S. Baldwin, surgeon in charge there; but in view of the fact that a large number of medical papers appear in the present volume, it was thought proper to defer detailed report of this material to a subsequent date. In like manner, papers in the Museum that are also printed in the Official Records have not been entered here, except in some special instances, and then with references to the full text as printed.

With the above exceptions, however, this report contains an abstract of all the manuscripts received at the Museum prior to September 1, 1907. Some of these may appear unimportant, or at most, of small value, but the editor has not felt called upon to pass final judgment on every paper, and has preferred to make brief mention of all, in order to avoid the risk of omitting anything that might be of use.

Where any considerable number of papers clearly belong together, they have been grouped in sections under a specific title, but the bulk of separate or individual papers will be found under the caption Miscellaneous Manuscripts. To facilitate rapid reference, each section is prefaced by a brief statement, giving the general content of the papers. The arrangement of each collection varies somewhat with its character. The Shea papers, for example, are so connected as to form virutally a continuous narrative, and for that reason are arranged chronologically, as is the Harrison Loan; but the Miscellaneous Manuscripts are arranged under the names of the senders of signers, and by date under the various names. Thus, in referring to the letters of T. J. Jackson, all letters and orders signed by him are grouped under his name chronologically. Reference to the index will show at once all letters addressed to, or endorsed by him. Occasionally a number of unimportant papers, such as receipts, returns, etc., are calendared under the name of the person to whom the receipt was given or the return was made, though the names of the signers of such papers will be found separately in the index. Again, entry is under the name of the person addressed when the sender is unknown.

The form of calendar-entry has followed closely the model suggested by the American Historical Association, which is now generally accepted by students; and the abbreviations descriptive of the character of the papers are an extension of those proposed by the same body.

As many manuscripts are undated, it has devolved upon the editor to supply the proper date when possible. This can sometimes be done by the contents of the letter; and where this readily appears, the date has been placed between brackets by the editor, without comment. Where the date can be ascertained only approximately, or where it is doubtful, an interrogation point has been added; and when the date is supplied from evidence that does not appear in the context, an explanatory foot-note has been added.

In quotations, the peculiarities of orthography and diction have been preserved throughout; but where the meaning of the original is not clear, a corrected or suggested form has been placed in brackets. Brackets have likewise been added wherever a word, letter or figure has been interpolated by the editor, and parentheses are employed only where they occur in the original. It has been thought best to adopt a uniform system of date and title abbreviation, following the generally accepted military usage. Where such title or date appears in full, the standard abbreviation has been used without comment, but where other abbreviations occur, they have been indicated by brackets. Thus, where the term "General commanding" is spelt in full, the abbreviation used is that commonly found in such a place, "Genl. comdg.;" but where the original reads "G. comdg." the change has been noted as "G[enl]. comdg."

Throughout the text, foot-notes will be found with more or less frequency. The editor has supplied these purely as an explanation of statements made in the text, without comment of his own. While these notes will be of little value to the trained investigator, it is believed that they may be of some service to the general reader.

Part Two of the Calendar contains a bibliography of some Confederate publications. This list does not pretend to any degree of finality or completeness; but the Commission has thought wise to publish the titles of the more important books printed during the period of the Confederacy in order to call attention to them and also to secure references to other titles and editions from investigators and bibliophiles. Additions to this list are earnestly requested, as the Commission contemplates the publication of an extended bibliography at some future time. It has been thought best to preserve the terms "octavo" "duodecimo," etc., in describing the books listed, inasmuch as measurements in centrimetres convey no accurate impression of the size of the volume to one unfamiliar with the metric system.

The editor wishes, finally, to express his indebtedness to the many friends who have assisted him in the preparation of this edition. Miss Baughman, Chairman of the Committee, has faithfully and graciously discharged her onerous duties. Misses Maury and Harrison, of the Confederate Museum, gave the editor every possible courtesy in the preparation of the material; Miss L. T. Munford and Mrs. W. N. Hamlet, of Richmond, kindly made accurate copies of lengthy documents, and Miss K. P. Stiles afforded him every facility to the examination of the splendid DeRenne collection. To Mrs. E. C. Minor the editor owes a special debt of gratitude for introducing him to the work and for supporting him throughout. Professor C. M. Andrews, of Johns Hopkins University, has given generously of his time and experience, and has saved the editor from many mistakes of form and of judgment, while the other members of the historical faculty of the same University have been equally kind. Dr. H. J.

Eckenrode, archivist of Virginia, has advised the editor upon many technical points, and Dr. Allen W. Freeman, of Richmond, supplied the notes to the medical papers of this volume. Finally, the editor's father has been his unfailing source of information for facts regarding the history of the Confederacy. A word of thanks should be added to the printers, Messrs. Whittet and Shepperson, and especially to Mr. Robert Whittet, Jr., for their care and courtesy in the performance of their task.

A CALENDAR OF CONFEDERATE PAPERS.

PAPERS RELATING TO THE MEDICAL DEPARTMENT OF THE CONFEDERATE STATES ARMY.

In the fire which followed the evacuation of Richmond, the Surgeon-General's office was burned,¹ and with it, all the archives of the department, including hospital-returns, consolidated reports and histories of important cases.² In consequence of this loss, material on the medical history of the army is scarce and widely scattered. The collection of this material is demanded not only as a phase of the history of medicine, but as a factor in the general history of the war, since hospital management, field sanitation, prophylactic measures and surgical technique were important considerations in determining the effective strength of the army.³

The Museum has been fortunate in securing many medical records, and from them the following selections are made. The letter-books of the Front Royal and Liberty Hospitals are especially important, inasmuch as Surgeon Blackford⁴

² For reference to some of these cases, see Proceedings of the Army and Navy Surgeons, infra, p. 37.

³ Rhodes, Hist. U. S., v. 5. pp. 186-87, gives the losses of the Southern armies from disease as about 164,000, as compared with 224,586, in the Federal armies. See also T. L. Livermore, Numbers and Losses in the Civil War in America. (N. Y. and Bos., 1901, 2nd ed.)

entered in them all orders and circulars from the Surgeon-General's office. From these, and from the correspondence, many valuable facts regarding hospital life may be gathered. It should not be supposed, however, that the conditions at Liberty were altogether typical, since a hospital constantly filled with the newly wounded, and situated in an impoverished country, could hardly maintain the standard of this essentially convalescent hospital. On the other hand, the details of hospital routine were probably the same everywhere.

The abstract of the proceedings of the Army and Navy Surgeons gives much information regarding the lines of research and investigation followed by the leading surgeons of the army and navy, while the selected miscellaneous papers illustrate the relations of the medical department to the army.⁵

I. OFFICIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF BENJAMIN BLACKFORD, SURG. C. S. A., IN CHARGE OF GENERAL HOSPITALS AT FRONT ROYAL AND LIBERTY, VA. 2 Vols. 40 20-21.

¹⁹ Despite the frequent discharges reported because of consumption, many cases of that disease were undoubtedly cured by the open-air life of the soldiers, anticipating by a generation the modern treatment. Chronic diarrhoea and its frequent concomitant, dysentery, have always been scourges for armies.

II. ASSOCIATION OF THE ARMY AND NAVY SURGEONS OF THE CONFEDERATE STATES.

Minutes of organization and proceedings, from Aug. 22, 1863, to Apr. 23, 1864, and from Feb. 4, 1865, to Mch. 18, 1865. This Association was formed among the staff of the Surgeon-General's Office and the surgeons of the forty-four Hospitals⁴⁸ in Richmond for the discussion of problems relating to military medicine and surgery and to hospital management. Its sessions appear to have been spirited, and, though the questions raised were often academic in the main, some idea of methods of treatment may be gathered from these records and the appended questions. The discussions were printed in the "Journal of the Army and Navy Surgeons," but no complete set of this has been reported.⁴⁹

⁵³ The guarded language of this resolution indicates the real difficulties involved in determining this point. As a general proposition, the aperture of entrance is clean-cut, while the aperture of exit may be lacerated or jagged, and is usually larger than the aperture of entrance; but the distance from which the shot was fired, the nature of the bullet and its velocity have to be taken into consideration.

Oct. 31, 1863. President in the chair—minutes read—third series of questions read⁵⁸—answers received—a table presented of cases of “Ligated Arteries consequent upon secondary haemorrhage, prepared from records in Surg. Genl’s Office, from October 1, 1862, to Oct. 1, 1863.”—reports presented—a case of “haemorrhage from anterior tibial artery permanently controlled by compressing the femoral artery continually for 15 days, without ligation”⁵⁹—decided to discuss incidental subjects connected with the general questions—Surg. Campbell discussed cases of haemorrhage “and suggested the propriety of ligating the main trunks in cases of haemorrhage, with a view to controlling the inflammation as well as arresting the flow of blood”⁶⁰—discussion—adjournment.

⁵⁵ The report of this committee is not found in the records.

⁵⁶ See Questions for Discussion and Report, second series, infra, p. 40.

⁵⁷ It is stated that in recent wars, notably the Russo-Japanese, a majority of the wounds inflicted by bullets from small arms healed by first intention.

⁵⁸ For these questions, see infra, p. 41.

⁵⁹ Ligation would almost certainly have produced infection.

⁶⁰ It is difficult to see how “inflammation” could be controlled by ligation of the vessels.

Nov. 28, [1863]. President in the chair—minutes read—reported a new method of “flap” amputation⁶¹—answers to questions received—report on Cicatrices—essay on Hunterian and Guthrieian methods of ligating arteries⁶²—reports on third series of questions—decided to put question on first series at next meeting.

Dec. 12, 1863. President in the chair—minutes read—report on secondary haemorrhage—case of secondary haemorrhage arrested by “styptics, compression and cold applications without ligation.”⁶³—Résumé of previous discussions on first series of questions—“see records of Sept. 5th”—amendments rejected—original motion carried—résumé adopted as sense of the meeting—report on Water Applications not ready.

Jany. 2, 1864. President in the chair—minutes read—replies to questions—case of “traumatic aneurism of the axillary, following gun-shot wound”⁶⁴—discussed—secondary haemorrhage discussed—third question of series of Dec. 26 discussed—committees appointed to report on: 1, Wounds of the cranial cavity; 2, Wounds of large joints; 3, Wounds of the thorax, involving the lungs.—Paper read on eruptive diseases following vaccination.⁶⁵

Jany. 16, 1864. President in the chair—minutes read—case of traumatic aneurism of the femoral following gun-shot wound⁶⁶—secondary haemorrhage and water applications discussed—résumé read of discussion on third question of first series⁶⁷—adopted—discussion of fourth question of series of ⁶¹ Amputation was by far the most common operation during the war, and the methods employed differed essentially with the operator.

⁶² Not found.

⁶³ This was good treatment, doubly good in view of the enormous mortality following operations.

⁶⁴ Traumatic aneurism is said to have become much more common after wounds caused by modern high-power arms than it formerly was.

⁶⁵ No further report found.

⁶⁶ Not found.

⁶⁷ See proceedings of Aug. 22, 1863, supra.

Dec. 26⁶⁸—tetanus the next subject for discussion—"preparation of a tumor" reported—photographs of a case of excision of the hip-joint.⁶⁹

Jany. 30, 1864.⁷⁰ President in the chair—minutes read—papers on death from chloroform⁷¹—on tetanus and tetanic spasm⁷²—discussion of previous series of questions⁷³—no decision.

Feb. 13, 1864. President in the chair—minutes read—replies to questions—analysis of 26 cases of traumatic tetanus⁷⁴ from Surgeon-Genl's records—case of diffused traumatic aneurism of the femoral⁷⁵—report on wounds of the lungs—read and accepted—tetanus discussed by 12 members.

Feb. 27, 1864. President in the chair—minutes read—report on method of amputation—committee appointed to investigate and report on "Syphilitic inoculation, its relation to vaccination"⁷⁶—questions of Feb. 27 discussed.⁷⁷

⁶⁸ For these questions, see infra, p. 42.

⁷⁰ The ink of the record changes at this point.

⁷³ That is, series of December 26, for which see infra, p. 42.

⁷⁴ The term "idiopathic" tetanus has passed out of medical literature with the knowledge of the cause of the disease.

⁷⁵ Cf. Proceedings of Jany. 2, 1864, supra.

⁷⁶ This dreadful accident, far too common before the days of calf lymph, has happily been eliminated by modern method of preparing vaccine.

⁷⁷ See Fifth Series, infra, p. 43.

Mch. 12, 1864. President in the chair—minutes read—reports on traumatic tetanus and tetanus—report “of a disease in the South simulating tetanus”⁷⁸—honorary members chosen—second question of series of Feb. 27 discussed⁷⁹—case of amputation previous to manifestation of tetanic symptoms, and its failure to prevent tetanus⁸⁰—third question [series Feb. 27] discussed⁸¹—discussion on cases of excisions of parts of the humerus.⁸²

Mch. 26, 1864. President in the chair—minutes read—appointment of surgeons to report on “Site and construction of Military Hospitals. Proper proportion of inmates to cubic capacity. Necessary hygienic measures to insure early & rapid convalescence, embracing ventilation, drainage, &c. Origin, rise, and progress of infectious maladies, particularly obnoxious to Military Hospitals; how communicated; Best preventive & curative measures to be adopted. Disinfectants, how employed, and to what extent successfully, and any other points deemed of interest or of value in the general management of Military Hospitals.”⁸³—embryology and toetal development discussed⁸⁴—adjournment.

April 9, 1864. President in the chair—minutes read—reports read and adopted on the wounds of the cranial cavity⁸⁵—

⁷⁸ It is impossible to determine what disease is meant. Escherich has reported a form of general “tonic contractures of the muscles of the jaw, neck, back and limbs” in children, which occurs as a sequel of some acute infection or occasionally as an independent malady. (See Osler, op. cit., 260.) This may possibly be the disease referred to here.

⁷⁹ See Fifth Series, infra, p. 43.

⁸⁰ The amputation-stump might very well have been inoculated with tetanus at the time of the operation.

⁸¹ See infra, p. 43.

⁸² Conservative bone surgery was impossible; excision or amputation were the only alternatives.

⁸³ The importance of these subjects is manifest. Unfortunately the report has not been found.

⁸⁴ Evidently this was incidental; such a subject would have no place in the discussions of the Association.

⁸⁵ See proceedings of Jan. 2, 1864, supra.

cases presented—committee appointed to report on “Camp Itch—its distinctive character—its differential diagnosis from true scabies,⁸⁶ and its most efficacious treatment.”

April 23, 1864. President in the chair—minutes read—paper read and accepted on “wounds of large joints”⁸⁷—honorary members chosen.

Feb. 4, 1865.⁸⁸ President in the chair—minutes read—resignation of Treasurer—Treasurer elected—report on Yellow Fever read and accepted⁸⁹—papers on “Syphilitic Inoculation”⁹⁰ and “Pneumonia” announced.

Feb. 18, 1865. President in the chair—minutes read—paper on “Endemic Pneumonia of the Confederate States”⁹¹ read—case of resection of radius⁹²—a case “of gun-shot wound of right thigh and knee, followed by amputation, subsequent exposure and protrusion of the femur, and removal of this bone.”⁹³

March 4, 1865. President in the chair—paper on Syphilitic Inoculation⁹⁴—moved it be printed in the “Journal”⁹⁵—carried—paper to be read on treatment of gun-shot wounds by “Occlusive Dressings, or hermetically sealing”⁹⁶ from sta-

⁸⁶ “Army itch” or “camp itch” is now generally regarded as true scabies. See Stelwagon, Diseases of the Skin, (5th ed., 1907), pp. 1100-01.

⁸⁷ See Proceedings of Jan'y 2, 1864, supra.

⁸⁸ No records have been found for the period from April 23, 1864, to Feb. 4, 1865. It is probable that another record-book was used.

⁸⁹ Not found. Such a report would be of great interest. Yellow fever was sadly remembered in Virginia after the Norfolk and Portsmouth outbreaks of 1855.

⁹⁰ Cf. Proceedings of Feb. 27, 1864.

⁹¹ Pneumonia was probably then, as now, of a slightly less fatal type in the South than in the North, else no distinction was to be made.

⁹² Result not stated.

⁹³ The result is not stated; but bone injuries were almost always fatal at this time.

⁹⁴ Cf. Proceedings of Feb. 4, 1865, and note 90.

“Sir;

In replying to questions, and in Essays or Papers sent to the Association, a résumé is requested, coming to some conclusion, in order to facilitate taking the vote in the decision on the subject.

The Following Questions Are Proposed:

I. Any death from Chloroform in your practice; give particulars of the case, if any. Is this agent always used?⁹⁸

II. 1st. Does “shock” postpone your surgical interference; at what period of time, after injury, are you usually able to operate?

2d. Any relation between the character of the injury and the gravity of the shock?

3d. Any death, in your practice, from shock alone?⁹⁹

III. Do cicatrices from gun-shot wounds furnish you information as to the nature of the missile which caused the injury, and the probable entrance and exit of the same?¹⁰⁰

Further particulars on these subjects, with accounts of any

You are respectfully requested to restrict your answers at present to these questions of Section A, Third Series, as those of Section B, on the same subject of traumatic hæmorrhage, will shortly be forwarded.¹⁰²

Third Series of Questions:

I. In your field practice, what number of cases of primary hæmorrhage; ratio of these to the hundred Gun-shot wounds; vessel operated on; point ligated and result?

In your hospital practice, what number of cases of secondary hæmorrhage; ratio of these to the hundred; and vessel injured?

III. In your practice, how long after the arterial lesion from a gun-shot wound does secondary hæmorrhage occur? Mention the Artery wounded.

IV. Among your wounded, how has secondary hæmorrhage most frequently occurred? by excess of arterial action? or separation of slough? or ulceration of coats of artery? or

"The undersigned Physicians and Citizens respectfully petition your honorable body to exempt from military duty such apothecaries as are now exempted from the same by the Congress & Government of the Confederate States.

For the necessity of this we would call to mind that the apothecaries thus exempted number only forty-five (45) in the entire State.

¹¹⁷ The Strangers' Guide lists no hospital in the locality assigned to this one, in a MS. note attached to the original, the two nearest being "General, No. 1," on Second street, and the "Samaritan," on Clay, between Fifth and Sixth streets.

This number is hardly sufficient to supply the sick in their localities with medicines & instances of suffering—perhaps of a fatal nature—have occurred in consequence of inability to procure the usual remedies.

The Education and experience necessary to fit the Apothecary for his calling is of such a character that his duties cannot be delegated to unskilled persons, and that the difficulty of procuring and bringing Drugs to our Towns is greatly increased, & that in addition to the preparation of Physicians prescriptions, it now devolves upon the Apothecary to manufacture many articles which formerly could be purchased ready for use.

It is moreover uncertain at what hour the Apothecary may be called upon to furnish his Medicines.

We therefore respectfully ask that the few Apothecaries who are now exempted by the Confederate Government may be allowed to devote their whole time and skill to the performance of their important duties, in which the comfort and safety of the sick are so seriously involved.” D. S. W₁-

PAPERS RELATING TO THE RICH- MOND CAMPAIGN OF 1864: THE HARRISON LOAN.

This collection consists of 983 original telegrams relating to military and naval operations around Richmond and Petersburg, Va., during May-September, 1864. The more important messages are printed in the "Official Record";¹ but the importance of the campaign, and the controversy which is still on regarding all of its movements, call for the publication of all papers which may shed light on events.² The telegrams copied below relate chiefly to brigade movements, to the blockading squadron, and to conditions on the Richmond defences.

The collection contains a large number of ordnance messages, a few of which are here printed, and a mass of personal despatches, besides the military and naval material. Apparently these are the originals of telegrams sent from Drewry's Bluff, or thereabouts, by J. D. Potts. They were acquired by the late Hon. W. W. Henry, and deposited by his heirs in the museum. Many of them are the original autographs of leading Confederate generals.

PAPERS OF BRIG-GEN. W. N. R. BEALL.

On Dec. 6, 1864, Brig.-Genl. W. N. R. Beall, P. A. C. S., was paroled as a prisoner of war, by agreement between Judge Robert Ould and Lt.-Genl. U. S. Grant,¹ and appointed agent to supply Confederate prisoners of war. By the agreement, one thousand bales of cotton were to be shipped by the Confederate authorities from Mobile to New York, and there sold by Genl. Beall.² This collection contains his copies of the correspondence on the subject between Oct. 1864, and Sept., 1865, including his orders and instruction; his communications with Head-Quarters; the negotiations for the shipment and sale of the cotton; and the letters from prison committees chosen to issue the supplies. The "Official Record"³ contains many papers regarding the shipment of the cotton which are not in Beall's collection, nor did he apparently keep copies of all his communications with Head-Quarters; but the letters from the prison camps appear to be new, and contain many valuable hints as to the condition of prisoners. Papers which are printed in the "Official Record," and also found in Beall's copies, are entered merely with reference to the full text.⁴

"Enclosed you will find copies of communications,⁵ which will show you the understanding had in regard to supplying Prisoners of War, through the agency of their respective governments.

The fund referred to is designed to provide clothing and other necessary supplies, and it hoped that it will be realized in time to avert the severity of winter.

Your own judgment will best guide you in the purchase of such articles as will contribute most to the comfort of our soldiers now in captivity. Blankets and woolen clothing, especially the former, will, of course, be their chief want.

You are requested on completing the purchase and distribution of these supplies to make to this Office a report thereof, coupled with a summary account of the sale of the cotton and the disbursement of the proceeds."

or purchases, and will, in no event, visit any place at which Confederate prisoners of War are detained.

His arrangements with Confederate prisoners of war at the several Depots of prisons, for the distribution of Supplies, will be made by correspondence, which will be subject to the inspection of Brig.-Gen. H. E. Paine and the Commanders of Such Depots and will be transmitted through Genl. Paine and Such Commanders.

2d. He will give Gen. Paine timely notice of required transportation of Supplies, to enable him to procure the same through the U. S. Qr. Mr. Department.

3d. He will report according to his parole to Genl. Paine, daily, at such places as Gen. Paine may designate.

I have delayed forwarding receipts, because of desire to send rolls with them—illness of my chief clerk and the news of the week has delayed him. “On yesterday after the reading of the bulletins confirming the assassinations of Messrs. Seward & Lincoln, a mob of paroled men in the camp became quite unruly & a detachment was sent to hoist the Federal Flag over my office. I was fortunately absent—but my wife met them & by her courtesy disarmed their wrath. The Comdt is very kind & extra guards are now in readiness to repress any outbreak. I remain perfectly calm & trustful, doing or saying nothing to exasperate, yet in no wise abating my position. Have you any information as to the status of Prisoners now—or as to what arrangements are proposed in reference to them?”

1864, Dec. 19, Johnson's Island, U. S. Military Prison. John A. Fite, Col., James W. Bowles, Lt.-Col., to Brig.-Genl. W. N. R. Beall.

We have been elected to conduct the distribution—have examined the wants of every prisoner on the island—understand you have only the proceeds of 1,000 bales of cotton—the part of each man is then very small—nine-tenths of the men would prefer it be spent in provisions—authorities still issue some clothing—can still write for clothing; for provisions only when have surgeon's certificate—the average wants of each man—need 162 blankets, 65 coats, 178 prs. pants, 324 prs. drawers, 236 shirts, 463 prs. socks, 121 prs. shoes—this do not include those with soldiers' jackets only, or jackets partly worn—even some of these prefer “something to eat”—are 2,677 officers here, 136 privates, 48 citizens, 2 servants—provisions desired—1 1-2 lbs. flour and 1 lb. of bacon per week per man will make enough with the issue—money deposited here for the use of prisoners in the Hospital would save much suffering and some lives—hope we may come to New York and report—

1864, Dec. 28, Johnson's Island, O. John A. Fite, Col., J. W. Bowles, Lt.-Col., to Brig.-Genl. W. N. R. Beall.

Repeat former requisition [B₁-5-1]. 336 new prisoners have come, their wants greater than those of men now in prison—boxes from the South are not delivered—said to be because they are not prepaid—ask investigation—tobacco addressed to Col. Clay & Maj. Holliday not received—was sent for the Kentuckians here by E. M. Bruce, from Richmond—hopes for parole—a few hundred lbs. of sole-leather would help us.

In consequence of great need of hospital supplies, I suggest Gen. Beall be requested to furnish specified provisions,—flour, hams, lard, crackers, sugar, coffee, tea, molasses, condensed milk, dried fruit, butter, brandy—small amounts—vegetables and poultry bought at Sandusky would help greatly—I suggest $500 be deposited for that purpose—money spent in the prison hospital will be more beneficial than if spent in the prison at large—Dr. Everman, Surg. in charge, will do every thing to further this—has been consulted—

"We have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your circular of the 23rd inst, and beg leave to submit the following report,—

There are Six thousand (6000) prisoners confined at this place, about Seventy five (75) per cent of whom are bona fide prisoners of war⁴⁰ waiting exchange. New prisoners are arriving about as fast as the old are removed. You will perceive from our certificates of the 14th inst. and of the present date, that we have distributed all the articles on your first three invoices (Feb. 4th, 17th & 25th) except Six hundred and ninety Six (696) Blankets and two hundred (200) prs. shoes. The shoes left on hand are fives & sixes; 300 prs. 8s 9s 10s & 11s will restore the just proportion.—Yesterday evening we received all the articles invoiced on the 11th & 15th of March, with the exception of one case (100 prs.) Shoes; we enclose receipts for the invoice of the 11th inst. and only wait the arrival of the missing case of shoes to forward those of the 15th. We have not yet received the one hundred & seventy one (171) packages Sundries from the South, the invoice of which reached us about ten days since. We have the use of a house near our quarters in which to store all goods until issued. This house is guarded by a U. S. Sentinel assisted by several trusty men of our own number. We have made every effort to supply the most destitute in camp with the supplies received. Pants and under clothing are in great demand, very few prisoners having a change of the latter.

We have been prisoners from sixteen to twenty months, and have the promise of exchange as soon as our work is done; we are willing to serve you in this capacity, as long as you think our services will be necessary, but would like to have from you an expression of opinion as to the time of our release.”

“General:—We, the undersigned, Confederate Prisoners of War, having been duly elected by our comrades to “receive and issue supplies on their arrival,” (as per your circular dated ‘New York City, December 9th, 1864,’ having thoroughly inspected the prison, beg leave to make the following report: Number of prisoners in Barracks, Dec. 14th, 6106. Number of prisoners in Hospital, Dec. 14th, 629. Total, 6735. Of this number, there are, reporting themselves citizens, 350. Leaving the whole number of enlisted men, 6385.

Clothing and Blankets Needed.

“Shoes, 2585 pairs; Pants, 3490 pairs; Socks, 6402 pairs; shirts, 5235 pairs; Drawers, 5093 pairs; Jackets, 2407; Hats, 1853; Blankets, 2130 pairs.

“In this examination we have complied strictly with your instructions, so that, after the above named articles have been distributed,⁴² each man will have only one whole suit of outer garments, a change of under clothing, and, with few exceptions, only two blankets. A majority of us have been prisoners since November, 1863, and many even for a longer period; a greater portion of us are from the extreme South, and entirely cut off from all home supplies—hence, the great demand for clothing; but, great as it is, we are forced to suggest a change of over shirts in addition. We assure you that, in making the above estimates, we have not been unmindful of the expense and inconvenience our Government is subjected to in carrying out their arrangements, and have made them as low as, in our opinion, the necessities of the men will admit.

Provisions.

“The diet now issued to the prisoners is composed of the following articles and quantities, viz: Fresh or Salt Beef, including tongues, livers, hearts and bones, 14 ounces per day, which, when cooked and issued, will not average more than six ounces to the man; Soft Wheaten Bread, when weighed fresh from the bakery, 16 ounces per day; Corn Bread, (inferior quality.) when fresh, 18 ounces per day; Hominy, 2 ounces per day; also, a small quantity of Vinegar and Salt. No Bacon or Pork has been issued to us since July last. The foregoing list comprises everything that is issued to us with the exception of Soap, of which we receive a sufficient quantity.

“You see, from the above, that the quality and quantity are deficient. Especially is the list deficient in vegetables: so much so, that a large per cent. of the prisoners are suffering from scurvy. You see, also, that no fat is issued, except the small amount that is attached to our beef. This subjected us to no inconvenience during the summer months; but now, during the extreme cold of this climate in winter, we feel much the need, and suffer for the stimulating and warming properties of meat containing fat. Our diet, confined as it is to so few articles, and such small amount of each, is producing, in many instances, torpidity of the hepatic system, and consequently torpidity of the bowels, with the long catalogue of symptoms attending that departure from the law of nature. This could be entirely remedied by issuing vegetables possessed of anti-scorbutic properties, which, while relieving us from the dreadful scourge of scurvy, would at the same time effectually counteract any tendency that salted pork or bacon would have to keep alive in our systems the germs of disease already there; Vegetables would not only counteract this tendency, but a sufficient amount would free us entirely from its ravages. We would respectfully, but especially, call your attention to this fact, as we have suffered much from scurvy, and many of our number have fallen victims to it. It is true that we have been permitted, within the last month, to purchase vegetables from the prison sutler; but prices are so high, and so few prisoners have money, that comparatively little benefit is derived from the privilege. Our condition and comfort would also be enhanced to a great degree by the addition of Sugar and Coffee. In fact, we need the stimulating properties of Coffee or Tea, to support us against the rigors of a climate so much colder than the one to which we have been accustomed.

“In addition to the quantity of food we are already receiving, we think that the health and comfort of the prisoners demand the following:

“Rations of Coffee and Sugar; 4 ounces Bacon or Pork per day; 4 ounces Flour; Rations of Navy Beans.

“This additional quantity, together with a few vegetables, would restore to the men the health and vigor they possessed last winter when abundant rations of the articles named were issued to them by the United States Government.

Medicines.

“If not incompatible with the arrangement that has been entered into by the two Governments, we would call your attention to the fact that a small supply of medicines is much needed in the prison. There are many articles of medicine needed by prisoners when in the incipient stage of disease, which they are, under the present arrangement, entirely cut off from. Owing, often, to the crowded condition of the hospital, and to the fact that the prison is visited only once a day by the Surgeons, and to other causes, men are debarred the advantages of early treatment, when a little judicious attention, and a small amount of medicine properly administered, would save the prisoner much suffering, and often life itself. We think the health and comfort of the prison would be enhanced by depositing a small lot of drugs inside, placed at the disposal of Confederate physicians, of whom we have some, judged competent to prescribe and dispense. Should this suggestion meet with your approval, and that of the Federal authorities, we will forward to you a list of such medicines as are believed to be necessary.

Tobacco.

“The comfort of the prison would be much improved by the addition of Tobacco, as it is out of the power of many, who are inveterate chewers and smokers, to procure it.

“In the foregoing, we have given you a statement of what we consider our actual necessities. We need not assure you, General, that we experienced much satisfaction, mingled with emotions of gratitude to our Government, when we learned that those wants were likely to be supplied. Hoping that the articles needed will soon arrive, with all the necessary instructions from yourself.”

Endsd:

“Respectfully forwarded with the following remarks. The ration issued to Prisoners of War is as follows 10 oz Pork or Bacon; 14 oz. Fresh Beef; 16 oz Flour or soft Bread; 14 oz Hard Bread (in lieu of Flour); 16 oz Corn Meal (in lieu of Flour); 12½ lbs Beans or Peas; 8 lbs Rice or Hominy; 4 lbs of Soap; 3 qts Vinegar; 3¾ lbs Salt, to 100 rations.—Sugar and Coffee or Tea will be issued to the sick &c.—The quality of the ration is exactly the same as issued to the troops of the Garrison, no distinction being made at all. The increase of 4 oz on Bacon and Flour as recommended in the within statement would increase the ration to two oz more than is issued to the troops of this Garrison. The scurvy patients have been always separated, and put in a Barrack by themselves, and vegetables issued to them, and allowed to be sold to them by the Prison Sutler on the Recommendation of the Surgeon in Charge, this system has been in force many months. The question of Medicines being issued to them in Barracks has been tried and found a failure, as it only tends to waste, and if a patient found sick in Barracks is allowed to Doctor himself, instead of being immediately taken to the hospital, the spread of disease would soon take place.—The call of a Surgeon once per day has reference to those sick in Quarters.—The charge of crowded accommodations in the Hospital cannot be sustained, as there are accommodations here for 900 sick; and the sick Report only shows 629, and most of those are the late arrivals from Price's Army.—The Corps of Surgeons here comprises One Surgeon and Eleven Assistants, there is neither a lack of Medicine or Attendance and the Hospitals Dep't has attained a celebrity for the splendid manner in which it is conducted.—The Prisoner's Hospital especially challenges admiration from all."

JOURNAL OF CHAS. E. LINING, C. S. S. SHENANDOAH.

This volume contains the daily journal of Chas. E. Lining, Past Asst. Surg., C. S. N., kept during the entire cruise of the Shenandoah. It adds little to the present information regarding the chief events of the long voyage of the cruiser, but gives many interesting side-lights on the conditions under which the cruise was made, the character of the crew, the personalities of the officers—in a word, it gives a careful and graphic picture of daily life. The statements regarding the discussion as to the disposition of the ship are of especial interest, as are the comments on the threatening interning of the "Shenandoah" at Melbourne.

It has been thought expedient to make daily entries from this record, even when there is "no news," in order to show the exact position of the ship day by day during what was one of the most memorable cruises of the war.

Lining was a native of South Carolina, and served in the United States navy on the "Cyane," until 1860. Returning then to America, he resigned and joined the Confederate navy, with commission as Asst.-Surgeon. From his "Cyane" journal, his movements can be accurately followed until 1862. No record has been found however, in which he is mentioned, until he is listed in the prospective crew of the "Shenandoah." A few hints in his journal seem to indicate that he was in England a portion of this time.¹

"This is doomed to be one of the blackest of all the black days of my life, for from to-day I must look forward to begin life over again, starting where I cannot tell, how I cannot say—but I have learned for a certainty that I have no country. About 1 P. M. we made out a sail on our lee [sic] beam, & as the wind was light, & there was every probability of her being a prize, got up steam & started for her—Came up to her about 5 P. M. when she hoisted English Colours. Hailed her, asked her name, & sent aboat on board to get some news from her. She proved to be the Eng. Bark 'Baraconta' [?] of Liverpool, thirteen days out from San Francisco. 'Bullock' boarded her and brought off the news that the Southern Confederacy was a thing of the past, all her Armies having surrendered, Mr. Davis & Mr. Stephens prisoners, which was also the case with most of the prominent men. I now see no reason to doubt it & it remained for us to see what we ought to do. It is the opinion of the Majority of the Officers that we ought to take her to 'Australia,' turn her over to the Government & we ourselves leave for England. Waddell, at last, came round to this opinion & the Ship's Course was changed for Sidney much to the delight of every body—or nearly every body, for some still think we ought to go to England with her—Thus ends our dream!—But I am too sad to think of it."

Aug. 3, 1865. Lat. 15-52N. Long. 121-44W.

Sadness is deeper with further appreciation of it—general grief—Waddell changes course—is steaming for Liverpool—says would be foolish to land crew penniless in Australia—Lee and Bulloch urge him to go to Australia—he is stubborn—even thinks he ought to run into a "Yankee" port and surrender the ship, or run into an English port and surrender it to the consul—think myself ship should be turned over to the English government until the home government is heard from—"Put all our guns etc. down in the hold—so now we are defenseless."

Aug. 4, 1865. Lat. 14-11N. Long. 126-29W.

The crew much disturbed over the news—present a petition⁷ to the captain—he calls all hands aft—makes a speech telling them the south had been conquered—they were in a position such as no ship had ever occupied—their cruise would go down in history—he would run the ship into the first English port—promised them "he would stick by them & only ask them to stand by him"—seems the petition asked to be carried to the first English port, but if he thought otherwise, they would stand with him.

¹⁴ Cf. Feb. 18, 1865, supra.

¹⁵ For Waddell's letter of surrender to Earl Russell, see O. R., Naval, s. 1, v. 3, pp. 783-84. When the officers left the Shenandoah, the family of Com. Matthew F. Maury was living in retirement at Birkenhead, near Liverpool. The officers visited them there, and presented many interesting souvenirs to the daughters of the great navigator. Among them Lieut. D. M. Scales gave Miss Eliza H. Maury the flag of the ship, which he had himself taken from the halliard when the crew had learned of the overthrow of the Confederacy. For some years it was not deemed safe to entrust the flag to the vicissitudes of custom's inspection, but it was finally brought to America and has been quite recently presented to the Confederate Museum.—Note of Mrs. Jas. R. Werth to the Editor.

¹⁶ The printed list, O. R., Naval, s. 1, v. 3, p. 792, does not include the names of the captains of captured vessels or the tonnage of the prizes. These are given in Lining's list. He omits, however, the Adelaide, captured and bonded Nov. 12, 1864, though he mentions its capture in the Journal. The official valuation is $1,172,223.

MISCELLANEOUS MANUSCRIPTS.

In this section are included all manuscripts in the archives of the Museum, which are not of sufficient extent to be classed by themselves or which have no connection with other papers listed. These manuscripts have been derived from many sources, but four particular collections should be mentioned. The Taliaferro papers represent practically all the papers and documents preserved by Major-General William B. Taliaferro, of Virginia, in his career as Colonel, as Brigadier-General in Jackson's Division, as District Commander in South Carolina and Florida, and as Commander at Charleston. Many interesting facts are disclosed in them regarding army conditions and movements in which General Taliaferro participated. The Stuart collection belonged to Brigadier-General George H. Stuart, of Maryland, and also contains many valuable papers. The large mass of manuscripts left by Colonel J. Thompson Brown is of importance for the movements of the artillery in the Army of Northern Virginia; while, finally, the De Renne collection includes many original letters of prominent Confederate leaders. Many letters from private soldiers are calendared at length, among which should be mentioned the Rouff and Baughman collections. The former of these, from a private of Longstreet's corps, are truly remarkable specimens of unconscious literary instinct. Baughman's letters are of value for movements in the Valley of Virginia and for events during the Petersburg Campaign. The circumscriptions of space have compelled brief reference to many papers which will, at a future time, be printed in their entirety.

Yours received, and forwarded to Genl. Lee with this endorsement: Letter of 7th from Col. Brown—just received—written before application of Cpts. Dearing, Carter and Stribling for guns reached me. It is an appeal from my distribution, made when I did not think any of the batteries engaged wanted any of the guns. Its statements are not now correct—guns applied for assigned at once to Dearing and Carter—exchanged two with Stribling. “I have always given captured guns to the Batteries engaged except where it would produce an injurious mixture of Calibres and weights of metal.”

Hope this is information, if new, will be satisfactory.

1863, Aug. 10, Camp near Liberty Mills, Orange Co., Va. C. [C. Baughman] to [Mrs. Geo. Baughman.]

Arrived here yesterday—are unattached as yet—address Otey Battery, Wharton's Brigade, Ewell's Corps—am happy to say "that at last we are 'Lee's Miserables'"—location of camp—have not seen Greer or Em[ilius] yet—saw some old friends of the 21st Va.—personal matters—weather very warm.

A. L. S. B₃-18.

1863, Aug. 14, Camp near Liberty Mills, Orange Co., Va. C. [C. Baughman] to [Mrs. Geo. Baughman.]

Letter received—many deserters coming in—we have received several recruits—now number 110 men—we are hoping for new guns—we want 6 10-pdr. parrots—our guns are of too short range—we will borrow guns if ordered into action—men in fine health and spirits—are having good fare—personal matters.

A. L. S. B₃-19.

1863, Aug. 20, Camp near Liberty Mills, [Va.] C. [C. Baughman] to [Mrs. Geo. Baughman.]

Letters received—personal matters—do not let disasters affect you—the joy of reunion will only be the greater, even if the war lasts two or three years longer—had a draw for a furlough, but missed it—were two furloughs to a hundred men—have divided our mess—please send 4 pounds of coffee and 8 pounds of sugar—will remit for them.

A. L. S. B₃-20.

1863, Aug. 25, Camp near Liberty Mills, Va. C. [C. Baughman] to [Mrs. Geo. Baughman.]

Personal matters—is reported we are ordered back to West Virginia—regrets—private affairs.

A. L. S. B₃-21.

1863, Sept. 14, Wytheville, Va. C. [C. Baughman] to [Geo. Baughman, Sr.]

Reasons for not writing—our battery and the home-guard are the only troops here—act as infantry, artillery and cavalry—courtesy of the people—expect orders to go to Jonesboro, Tenn.—purchase of a horse—family matters.

A. L. S. B₃-22.

1863, Sept. 17, Camp near Saltville, Va. C. [C. Baughman] to [Geo. Baughman, Sr.]

No orders for Tenn. yet—hope to receive them—this place the dullest in West Virginia—the horse is better than I thought—we hear that part of Pickett's Div. is on the way to Tenn., Corse's Brig. is at Glade Spring—personal matters—accident to Clifford Bridges. A. L. S. B₃-23.

1863, Oct. 17, on "Thunder Hill," near Abingdon, Va. C. [C. Baughman] to [Geo. Baughman, Sr.]

Letter received—have had a disagreeable time—order on Monday to Glade Springs [sic]—loaded guns and horses on the care—left there the 12th (Tuesday) about noon—reached Zollicoffer at dark—unloaded and took position—a strongly fortified place—the Yankees flanked Genl. Williams—Wednesday we withdrew—passed through Bristol—reached here Thursday—threw up breast-works—the Yankees withdrew—personal matters. A. L. S. B₃-24.

1863, Oct. 26, Camp near Abingdon, Va. C. [C. Baughman] to [Geo. Baughman, Sr.]

Under orders to march—do not know our destination—think it either Cumberland Gap or Knoxville—most of the men are bare-footed—unable to use my horse—whereabouts of the horse "in case of accident"—we have not been paid off for four months—do not expect it for two months yet.

A. L. S. B₃-25.

1863, Nov. 6, Camp in Sullivan Co., Tenn. C. [C. Baughman] to [Mrs. Geo. Baughman.]

Letters received—you misunderstood—I do not believe I shall be wounded or killed—do not be disturbed—have been here two days—no idea how long we shall stay here—short marches—do not believe we are to go to Knoxville or Cumberland Gap—personal matters. A. L. S. B₃-26.

1864, Apr. 23, Camp near Abingdon. C. [C. Baughman] to [Geo. Baughman, Sr.]

Arrived here last evening, because of reported advance against the Salt Works—cannot say where we are going—

“pretty certain” we will not go to Lee as we expected—wish we could have joined Longstreet and be in the battle of the war which I think will come off near Richmond “in a very short time”—fear we shall be “running up and down” between here and Greenville, Tenn. all the campaign—horses in bad condition.

A. L. S. B₃-27.

1864, May 2, Camp near Abingdon, [Va.] C. [C. Baughman] to [Mrs. Geo. Baughman.]

No letters for nearly three weeks—disagreeable march toward Zollicoffer—return without result—scarcity of provisions—rations from three-fourths to one pound of meal, and one-third of a pound of bacon—cold weather.

A. L. S. B₃-28.

1864, May 19, Camp “10 miles of Christiansburg,” [Va.] C. [C. Baughman] to [Mrs. Geo. Baughman.]

Personal matters—We had hoped to join Lee or Beauregard, but on the day we expected orders, were sent off to Saltville, to meet a raid—it was only a feint by Averill—the real attack was on Dublin—this was captured—our troops arriving too late—the bridge over the New River burned—we burned the bridge on the macadamized road—Morgan captures some Yankees near Wytheville—the enemy burned the warehouses and left Dublin—their killed and wounded fell into our hands—we go to Lynchburg this evening or tomorrow—do not know our destination from that point.

A. L. S. B₃-29.

1864, Sept. 8, “In the Trenches” [in front of Petersburg, Va.] C. [C. Baughman] to [Geo. Baughman, Sr.]

Arrived safely—little firing—our gun now on the left of the battery—position very strong—no danger of our being mined—the engineers have sunk wells and joined them with connecting tunnels—personal matters—address 13th Batln. Va. Arty., 1st Arty. Corps.

A. L. S. B₃-30.

1864, Sept. 9, “Trenches,” [Petersburg, Va.] C. [C. Baughman] to Greer [Baughman.]

Regret my silence caused alarm—was very busy—thought I would go "down there" when news of intended attack on Sumter was received—glad I did not—could not have been of use—can await war in Virginia—"when the news of the surrender of Fort Sumter arrived here yesterday evening the people seemed to be perfectly frantic with delight, I never in all my life witnessed such excitement, and never expect to again, the people met in procession, marched to the Capitol and the Fayette Artillery⁴⁰ fired 100 Guns in honor of the victory. After firing the procession marched to the Governor's house and Letcher made a few remarks,⁴¹ which the people did not consider quite strong enough secession, and he was hissed and groaned[.] After leaving the Governor's the procession went to the Capitol when it was proposed that the Confederate flag be raised—in place of the flag of the Federal government and for about 3 hours the Southern flag was left floating in the breeze[.]⁴² After leaving the Square the procession branched off into 3 parties and went all over town, making bonfires and firing rockets. The Enquirer, Examiner and Dispatch⁴³ offices were illuminated, business was almost entirely suspended yesterday evening, everybody is in favor of secession, that is all Richmond is, with a very few exceptions.

Tomorrow night nearly the whole town will be illuminated, and there will be a torch light procession. The people firmly expect war, and are preparing for it, they only await Prest. "Sir: I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your several despatches of 4th, 8th and 22d January, as well as of your full report from hands of Col. Dawson. The President instructs me to forward to you the following directions on the various points embraced in your correspondence—

Ist. In regard to our escaped prisoners. Place in the hands of some person in whom you have confidence such sum of money, not exceeding ten thousand dollars, as you may deem necessary, to be applied solely to the purpose of assisting such of our soldiers as may need aid to return to the Confederacy. No money is to be supplied to any that do not wish to return here.

II. In regard to Dr. S.— The President does not wish any more money advanced to him, nor does he desire that any enterprise of any kind be undertaken by the Doctor. We are determined not to permit any just complaint to be made of breach of neutral rights by our authority or sanction.

III. Pay over to the gentleman referred to in my despatch of 30th December last, twenty thousand dollars to be used by him at his discretion in our service, and to be accounted for by him. Should he hereafter need more money, inform him that I will send it to him on being notified of his wants.

IV. Reserve in your hands such sum as you may need to pay your expenses home.

⁵⁶ Alexander H. H. Stuart was a leader of the old Whig party in Virginia, was in Fillmore's cabinet, and a member of the Virginia Convention of 1861. See his "Recent Revolution . . ." (Rich., 1866).

V. Remit the entire remainder in your hands to Mess. Fraser, Trenholm & Co. of Liverpool, to be placed to my credit, in a separate account to be called "Secret Service Account." Make this remittance as soon as possible and let me know the amount of it, as we are in pressing need of these funds abroad for important service there.

VI. Procure for us a complete record of Burley's case that we may make it the basis of official action—(from its beginning to the final judgment in Appellate Court.)

VII. Return to Confederacy as soon as you can. Your own discretion must be exercised as to the best mode—I would however suggest Havana, thence to Matamoros by neutral vessel, thence through Texas. This route is long, but is the only one that can be considered entirely safe.

I believe this covers all points. I am necessarily brief in order to conceal this despatch more securely—As soon as you receive this, publish in N. Y. Herald an advertisement for one week, as follows:

For sale: ⁵⁷acres of Illinois prairie lands. For description, price and terms, apply by letter to Jacob Thompson was a secret agent of the Confederacy, with headquarters in Canada. For an account of his operations, see: A Leaf from History. Report of J. Thompson, agent for the late Confederate Government. (Wash., 1868.) "Dr. S." is mentioned by Thompson (op. cit.) as "Dr. K. I. Stewart of Virginia." There was, however, a Dr. C. L. 1864, Apr. 13, Richmond, Va., C. S. Arsenal. Wm. Leroy Broun, [Col., etc.] to Col. J. Thompson Brown, Adjt. of Arty., 1st Div., Frederick Hall, Va.

"Dear Col.

I have ordered the fuzes to be made and hope they will be ready in time to give them a fair trial at the Yankees and will also have them worked into seconds.

With regard to the fuze igniter I proposed, so as to give both the advantage of the flame of the igniter, no matter how well it would act, it is clearly impossible to have them made for use, & hence I have paid little attention to it.

I have now enough brass plugs to last a year, & they cannot be altered, & the shells are made of such hard iron as to prevent drilling.

The tumbling of the new 3-in. is obviously [due] to want of centering the case—It is heavier on one side than another. By having the band sawn in four places, & reducing the length it will be practically far better than the present one. The drawing I still think is all right, but the half-skilled mechanics destroy the whole design.

All our improvements have to be adapted to our inferior material & to unskilled workmen—I am yet confident, I can adapt the concussion tuze to Round shell. My expts. here were very satisfactory.

Yours &c."

1864, Apr. 30, Richmond, Va., C. S. Arsenal. W. Leroy Broun, [Col., etc.] to Col. J. Thompson Brown, etc.

"Col.

In summing up the experiments made here & in the army I find the count stands thus [:]

⁷⁹ These copies were pasted on heavy paper, and were evidently intended for field use. See W. N. Smith, infra, p. 398.

With B's Concus. Fuze 3 inch Rifle, Copper cup shells.

- 1 Premature explosion (from an enlarged condemned gun)
- 8 Failed (four struck in water)
- 61 Exploded on striking.
- 70 Total fired.

With Parrott guns (Iron cup shell)

- 14 Premature explosions.
- 6 Failed.
- 26 Exploded on striking.
- 46 Total fired.

You thus see the Fuzes are well adapted for 3 Inch Rifle with copper cup shell, with the Iron cup the escape of gas so disturbs the leaden discharges as to cause frequent premature explosions. I hope to obviate this with Iron cups by reducing the weight of the discharges, as I have done from 250 grs. to 150 grs. It acts as well with the Napoleon as with the Parrott. Let them be used with 3 Inch & copper cup, if premature explosion occurs in Parrott guns. By pressing with the thumb on the lead [load?] it is easily seen whether there is any danger in using an equivalent amount of pressure in inserting the fuze in the shell. You may stand on the fuze pressing in the direction of the axis and fail to explode, & yet explode it by throwing it on hard ground. Let me know of the defects & I think I can overcome them.

Yours respectfully"

1863, May 9, Savannah, Ga. Henry Bryan, Maj, and A. I. G., to Col. H. D. Capers, comdg. 12th Ga. Batln.

I notice great improvement in your command since last report—improve manoeuvres by careful squad-drills—I notice a familiarity between some officers and men, especially in Co. A—to be avoided—rifles of Co. D are well-kept—I will pay particular attention at next inspection to skirmish drill—all of the Co. officers must be prepared to act as field-officer and drill the Battalion.

1863, May 9, Savannah, Ga. Henry Bryan, Maj. and A. I. G., to Lt.-Col. G. R. Black, comdg. [63rd Ga.], Thunderbolt, [Ga.]

Compliments on improvement of 13th Ga. Batln—is an effective regiment—drill is satisfactory under the circumstances—have careful squad-drills—take great pains over military appearance—Co. D a model in this respect—minor details of drill improvement—your Q-M. should construct a prison—Artillery drill should be perfected—your hospital in remarkably good condition—I hope skirmish drill will be begun.

menced fighting on Friday the 23rd of May about 4 o'clock in the evening at Front Royal and kept it up as long as we could see to run after the Yankees and fire a gun for the Yankees commenced running soon after our guns opened fire upon them. We ran them about five miles and then came back and camped for the night. We made an early start the next morning Saturday the 24th, and overtook them at a little place called Newtown and from there they went on by Strausburg in full tilt leaving their arms and dead behind them; they were scattered all along the road and in the wheatfields laying some three and for four in a pile together dead they continued their retreat until they got to Winchester where they made a stand and there our infantry was fighting with them all night Saturday night and Sunday morning, about a half an hour after sunrise. Our canon opened fire upon them and continued to fire upon them for about four hours. I hear heavy firing of canon close by and must stop writing, for we are ordered to hitch up.

June 13th. I will try and finish my letter, after fighting two more hard battles; as I was telling you about the fight at Winchester our canon firing upon the enemy for four hours they then commenced running again and our canon after them, we ran them as far as Martinsburg where we stopped in the fight at Front Royal, Newtown and Winchester. We captured between 3000 and four thousand prisoners besides what we killed and I do not know how many we did kill as they took off the most of their killed with them. I suppose though that we killed some 250 or 300 and a good many of our own but how many I do not know the was but one of our men wounded and he very slightly, his name was Counce; well now for the fight last Sunday and Monday; the alarm roll commenced beating Sunday morning about nine o'clock and we were ordered to hitch up our horses immediately which we done and went back about two miles to meet the Yankees and commenced firing upon them about half past eleven o'clock and continued to fire for five hours and a half as fast as we could load and fire. We had four men killed and four wounded and ten or twelve horses killed. Jno. Duke and Tom Goldin were killed. Jno. Duke was killed instantly, Tom Goldin lived a few hours; Giles Courtney was wounded slightly in the hand, and Sam Conway wounded in the side severely, thus ended the Sunday's fight. I cant tell you about the Monday's fight as I was some 25 miles off carrying off the men that was wounded on Sunday but I am told by those that were in it, that the struggle was more desperate than it was on Sunday. All of our boys was in it but those that were sick and myself, our loss was heavy, some four or five hundred killed and wounded, but the Yankees much heavier than ours, theirs was five times as heavy as ours, we have whipped them bad five times since the 22nd of May.⁹⁷ I could tell you a good deal more about the fights but I have marched until I am nearly broke down therefore I will close my letter by sending my best love to you and the children.

Your affectionate husband."

[1865, Jany. 10, Sullivan's Island, S. C. Wm. Butler, Col. comdgd., to Maj.-Genl.⁹⁹ Wm. B. Taliaferro, comdgd.]

"Consolidated Reports of events which have transpired on Sullivan's Island for the past ten days commencing 1st Jany. and ending on the 10th Jany., 1865.

Jany. 1st. Nothing unusual occurred during the past twenty four hours. The enemy fired 4 shots from Morris Island to the city and one to Ft. Sumter. Seven (7) monitors and (9) nine other vessels inside: five vessels outside the bar.

⁹⁷ For a critical account of this campaign, see G. F. R. Henderson: Stonewall Jackson . . . (Lond. and N. Y., 1900) v. 1, pp. 308-445.

⁹⁸ This commission was picked up on the battle-field.

⁹⁹ Taliaferro was made Major-General on Jany. 1, 1865, but was not generally so addressed in official communications. Where his former title of Brigadier-General does not occur in documents here quoted, his correct title is given.

- Jany. 2d. The enemy fired (10) ten shots last night at Ft. Sumter and (24) twenty four at some object near Ft. Johnson. They are (37) Thirty Seven vessels off the bar.
- Jany. 3d. The enemy fired during the night (10) shots at Ft. Sumter (10) in the direction of Ft. Johnson Wharf (15) in the direction of Castle Pinckney (5) out at Sea, (7) seven monitors (2) 'Tugs 1 Tern & 3 Schooners inside and (5) Gun boats & (3) sailling vessels outside the bar.
- Jany. 4th. The Enemy opened fire on Sumter with Monitors and Guns between one & two o'clock last night, firing 33 Shells, inside the bar (7) Monitors, (4) Tugs, and (6) Sailing vessels. Outside the Bar (5) Blockaders.
- Jany. 5th. The Enemy fired from Morris Island (24) shots at Fort Johnson (9) at Ft. Sumter (1) at Lutt's Island (32) Vessels off the Bar including (7) monitors. About 7 P. M. two men from Baty. Beauregard one a member of the guard & the other a prisoner deserted.
- Jany. 6th. The Enemy fired (25) shots from Morris Island at Ft. Sumter. At 5½ A. M. this morning a steamer safely ran the blockade. No report of fleet owing to the mist.
- Jany. 7th. Nothing of importance to report for past (24) hours. Twenty nine (29) Vessels including, six (6) Monitors in sight.
- Jany. 8th. The Enemy fired from Morris Island (9) shots at Ft. Sumter and 1 at James Island. The report of fleet as follows (6) Monitors, (3) Tugs and (15) Wooden Vessels.
- Jany. 9th. Nothing of importance to report for past (24) hours. Twenty Seven (27) Vessels in sight, including (6) Monitors.
- Jany. 10th. Nothing of importance to report for past 24 hours. Too foggy to count the enemy's vessels."

¹¹⁵ Under this name have been entered all orders and communications from the Adjutant General's Office. Properly speaking, these should be entered under the name of the Secretary of War, and all are indeed signed "by order of the Secretary of War"; but in practice, the Secretary either gives his orders to the Adjutant-General, or, in routine matters, left orders entirely to the latter's discretion. All orders from the Office, except General Orders, were signed by an Assistant Adjutant-General. The usage here followed was adopted by the editors of the Official Records and is generally accepted.

L. S. Ga-ga-1-32.

1864, Apr. 16, Hd-Qrs. 1st Md. Battery. Wm. F. Dement, Capt. comdg. to Lt-Col. [C. M.] Braxton, comdg. Battln.

In reply to yours whether I obeyed circular order of Apr. 5, 1864, from Hd Qrs. Arty. 2nd Corps, while commanding battalion—I know nothing of movements of battalion—it was then under Lt.-Col. Andrews, Capt. Rains was senior captain—my attention was devoted to my own command—made memorandum of movements from reports of company officers—left it with adjutant—being on court martial, while in command, I could not find time for report called for. Copy. D-16.

1862, June 1, Camp near Shannon's Gap, Giles Co., Va. C. Derrick, Lt.-Col. comdg. [1st] Batln. to Genl. S. Cooper.

Having appointed James Harden as Adjutant of this Batln. I request his regular appointment by the Department—he is a graduate of the V. M. I., has been Adjutant of 36th Va. Vols., and is eminently qualified. A. C. S. D-

Endsd: Approved and forwarded—seven companies to the Batln, others expected. G. W. Wharton, Col. comdg. A. S.

1862, July 30, Camp, Narrows of New River, [Va.,] Hd-Qrs. Derrick's Batln. C. Derrick, Lt.-Col. Comdg. to Genl. S. Cooper.

Recommending Jas. H. Harden for commission as 1st or 2nd Lieut.—his ability and services. C. C. D-

Endsd: 1. Most cordially recommend Harden for commission—has been acting as Adjt., but as the command is not entitled to a commissioned Adjt., I recommend his regular commission and assignment to Derrick's Batln. G. C. Wharton, Col. comdg. Brig. C. C.

¹³⁸ Not found. Maj. Jack was Genl. Polk's A. A. G.

2. I have observed Harden's energy and ability—I recommend his commission. Aug. Forsberg, Lt.-Col. comdg. 51st Va. Regt. Aug. 14, 1862.

1865, Apr. 30, Richmond, Va. Mrs. Mary A. Fontaine¹⁵⁸ to Mrs. Marie Burrows Sayre.

“My Dear Cousin,

You see I retain a lingering fondness for the Confederate way of doing things, in taking a half sheet of paper to write on. I have not replenished my desk as yet, and this is my last half sheet. I received your letter a few days ago, after Mrs. Hurdle left. Has she arrived safely? Did you receive no letters from me before you left Gordonsville? I wrote two or three, and once enclosed a big letter from Mr. S. In passing, I might as well say that I have lost sight of Mr. S. I can tell you nothing of him, thereby relieving your mind and getting rid of him at once. If you hear from him, tell me all about him, yourself and affairs generally. We R. people have grown calm somewhat. The young ladies keep themselves quietly at home, doing nothing to expose themselves to insult; and in all cases declining controversy with the U. S. Officers, which I heartily approve. The question is closed for the present, and no lady ought to permit a discussion at all, because they have the advantage of success and law, and it is not a fair contest. For my own part, I tread my own path, utterly ignoring them. I do not seem to see them, careful only not to expose myself to insult. I hardly dare venture a description of the first few days of April, but will attempt to give you an idea. Sunday, the 2nd, was one of those unusually lovely days that the Spring sometimes brings, when delicate silks that look too fine at other times seem just to suit; when invalids and convalescents venture out in the sunshine; when the churches are crowded as never before. So it was on this Sunday. I have never seen a calmer or more peaceful Sabbath morning, and alas! never a more confused evening. During service messengers tiptoed into the churches after prominent military and civil officers, and when the congregation were dismissed, everybody asked, 'What is it?' but no one could tell.

¹⁵⁸ This lady was a daughter of Dr. J. L. Burrows, a leading Baptist divine of Richmond. No apology need be made for printing this letter at length. It is correct as to facts and a remarkably graphic description. Dr. Burrows’ residence was close to the Capitol Square, the City Hall, and other public buildings. Hence the intimate account of events at these places. Compare Baughman’s description of the night of April 13, 1861, supra, p. 185.

Presently there were rumors that Gen. Lee's line was broken, and the enemy had reached the R. R., and Richmond must fall, etc., etc. We ladies were not contented except in the yard, and all were in the street with troubled faces. Major Williamson came to prepare to leave; then, one by one, the gentlemen hurried up with orders to leave that night. Then Mr. Davis, oh, so bowed and anxious, came, and when he told us he feared Richmond must be evacuated by midnight, the truth was forced upon us. We turned to our rooms to prepare those who were to leave. Mrs. Williamson gave herself to a grief which was terrible. All through that long, long night we worked and wept and bade farewells, never thinking of sleep; in the distance we heard the shouts of the soldiers and mob as they ransacked stores; the rumbling of wagons, and beating of drums, all mixed in a confused medley. Just before dawn explosions of gunboats and magazines shook the city, and glass was shattered, and new houses crumbled beneath the shocks. Involuntarily I closed the shutters, and then everything had become still as death, while immense fires stretched their arms on high all around me. I shuddered at the dreadful silence. Richmond burning and no alarm. It was terrible. I cannot describe my feelings as I stood at a window overlooking the city in that dim dawn. I watched those silent, awful fires, I felt that there was no effort to stop them, but all like myself were watching them, paralyzed and breathless. After a while the sun rose as you may have seen it, a great, red ball veiled in a mist. Again the streets were alive with hurrying men and women, and the [cry] of 'Yankees' reached me. I did not move, I could not, but watched the blue horseman ride to the City Hall, enter, with his sword knocking the ground at every step, and throw the great doors open, and take possession of our beautiful city: watched two blue figures on the Capitol, white men, I saw them unfurl a tiny flag, and then I sank on my knees, and the bitter, bitter tears came in a torrent.

May 7th—

A week has flown since I wrote the last page, and I have picked up another half sheet with the determination to finish my letter to-night. I was just trying to describe the scenes of the 3rd of April. About eight o'clock, after some thirty Cavalrymen had taken possession of Richmond, hoisted their flag, etc., the Artillery came dashing up Broad street, positively the fat horses came trotting up that heavy hill, dragging the cannon as tho. they were light carriages, the trappings were gay, and I commenced to realize the fearful odds against which our gallant little army had contended. Then the Cavalry thundered at a furious gallop. We haven't been used to that, you know, and it startled us; indeed I imagined that there never was such riding before, unless at Bull Run. Then the Infantry came playing 'The Girl I left behind me,' that dear old air that we heard our brave men so often play; then the negro troops playing 'Dixie,' and they certainly were the blackest creatures I ever saw. I am almost inclined to the belief that they were a direct importation from Africa. Then our Richmond servants were completely crazed, they danced and shouted, men hugged each other, and women kissed, and such a scene of confusion you have never seen. Imagine the streets crowded with these wild people, and troops by the thousands, some loaded with plunder from the burning stores, whole rolls of cloth, bags of corn, etc., chairs, one old woman was rolling a great sofa; dozens of bands trying to drown each other it seemed; gorgeously dressed officers galloping furiously about, men shouting and swearing as I never heard men do before; the fire creeping steadily nearer to us, until houses next to us caught and we prepared to leave; and above all, inconceivably terrible, the 800,000 shells exploding at the laboratory. I say imagine, but you cannot; no one who was not here will ever fully appreciate the horrors of that day. I have heard persons say it was like their idea of the judgment day; perhaps it may be. So many shells exploding for five hours would be fearful at any time; the heavens were black as with a thunder cloud, great pieces of shells flying about, oh! it was too awful to remember, if it were possible to be erased, but that can not be. By night things quieted down; there were brigade headquarters in the house; so we were protected from stragglers; and the oppressive stillness and darkness (there was no gas) was as fearful as the confusion had been. Pa and Ma have both been sick from the excitement. Ma is better, but weak. Pa continues feeble.¹⁵⁹ It seems so strange to say Pa is feeble, but he has lost 20 lbs., walks slowly like an old man, and is completely broken down; all his friends advise him to take a trip to the country, and I hope we shall get him off soon. He was always so hopeful, that the suddenness of the change prostrated him. Howard is here, paroled, and connected with the two papers; Times and Bulletin. We had a number of sudden marriages last Sunday. An order being issued Saturday, that after Monday, all persons marrying must take the oath before procuring licenses, there was considerable confusion created among certain Confederate officers, who were looking forward to marriage in the Spring: Such walking was done on Saturday to get licenses then, and such fixing up of old white dresses; Pa married Morton Wortham and Alice Thomas on Sunday night to two N. C. gentlemen, and two other couples since. There were said to have been 20 marriages in town that day. But if you are as tired of reading as I of writing, you are glad to see the end of the sheet. Tell Carroll B. that we received his letter, and are greatly obliged for his kind invitation, but my coffers are dry; I have not one cent, and no prospect of any unless I go to work. You all don't understand how poor we are here, not even a friend to borrow from, for all are alike. Give much love to Mrs. G. and thank her for her kindness to Mr. F. Love to Carrie B, Lizzie, Hattie, Armistead, your mother, Mrs. H, etc. Write soon to Cousin Mary.

P. S. Don't let a Yankee see this.

P. S. Mr. Fontaine is still in prison; please write to him. I hope he will stop to see you as he comes home, but you must not keep him longer than just to look at him, because I have not seen him for a year."

The congressional election is approaching—is important the District be represented by a man having the interests of Portsmouth and Norfolk in mind—from that section there are three candidates, Mahone, Hume and Godwin; from the up-district Parham and Whitfield—would prefer Parham personally, but cannot let such considerations enter—if they do not unite on one of the first three, the district being in Yankee hands, an up-country man will be elected—would be disastrous—Chambliss let the cotton loan pass,¹⁹¹ without making Norfolk a port of entry—must unite on the strongest—Hume will probably withdraw, Godwin will get but few votes ¹⁹¹ See discussion of the Congressional legislation regarding cotton in Rhodes, Hist U. S., v. 4, p. 275 ff.

6 lists of "tax in kind" turned over to Capt. Wm. P. Webb,²⁰⁹ A. Q-M.—corn, fodder, grain-stack, some hay.

P. F. S. Q-4-1-6.

1863, July 2, Townesville, Granville Co., N. C. Mrs. John Hipkins to Robert Ould, Esq. [Commr. of Exchange.]²¹⁰

Have you secured exchange of my son, John Hipkins, Jr?—he has been "imprisoned longer than any other Southerner either citizen or soldier." We have all suffered "very much from the vile Yankees"—lost home and property in Norfolk—second son disabled for life by wound at Manassas—oldest son "debarred the light and air of Heaven and kept under Yankee rule for nearly a year and a half; truly I have cause to hate them and I do." Request answer.

A. L. S. H-26-2.

[1863,] July 19, Townesville, Granville Co., N. C. Mrs. Jno. Hipkins to Judge [Robert] Ould, etc.

Repeat my former request [H-26-2] as I have had no answer—something "remarkably strange" in Hipkins' case—exchanged prisoners say he has never been allowed to receive letters from me—he cannot write—"I fear he will feel himself deserted by his family and country." Request reply.²¹¹

Order-Book, with later entries of general and special orders of Genl. J. E. Johnston, May 27, 1861-Sept. 17, 1861, and special orders of various commanders to Oct. 11th, 1861. Jackson's orders date Apr. 30, 1861-May 23, 1861,²²⁹ and are as follows:

²²⁸ Very inaccurately made up. The totals do not agree.

²²⁹ Several pages are missing after the entries of May 23, 1861. With May 27 begins a series of orders signed E. K. Smith, Lt.-Col. and A. A. G., by order of Brig.-Genl. [Jos. E.] Johnston. The Jackson literature is very considerable, and only the more important titles can be mentioned here. See M. Addey, Stonewall Jackson, (N. Y., 1863); Wm. Allan, History of the Campaign of Gen. T. J. Jackson in the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia, (Phila., 1880); Wm. C. Chase, Story of Stonewall Jackson, (Atlanta, 1901); John Esten Cooke, Stonewall Jackson, (N. Y., 1894, etc.); R. L. Dabney, Life and Campaign of Lt.-Genl. T. J. Jackson, (N. Y., 1866); J. W. Daniel, Character of Stonewall Jackson, (Lynchburg, 1868); J. G. Gittings, Personal Recollections of Stonewall Jackson . . . Cin., 1899); J. C. Gorman, Lee's last Campaign, with an accurate History of Stonewall Jackson's last Wound, (Ral., 1866); M. D. Hoge, Inauguration of the Jackson Statue, (Rich., 1875); C. C. Hopley, Stonewall Jackson, (Lond., 1863); H. H. McGuire, Address [June, 1897], (Lynchbg., 1897); F. H. Smith, Discourse on the Life and Character of Lt.-Genl. Thos. J. Jackson, (Rich., 1863); J. P. Smith, The Religious Character of Stonewall Jackson, (Lynchbg., 1897). The important works are Dabney, McGuire, F. H. Smith, J. P. Smith. G. F. R. Henderson, Stonewall Jackson and the American Civil War, (2 v., Lond. and N. Y., 1900, etc.), is the best authority. Mrs. Jackson's Life and Letters of Genl. T. J. Jackson, (N. Y., 1901) and her Memoirs of Stonewall Jackson, (L'ville, 1895) give the personal and domestic character of Jackson.

"I.²⁸⁵ The necessity of the service requires an immediate reorganization of the Artillery of this Army. The combination of the companies hereafter named, is to be considered temporary, and subject to the orders of the Secretary of War; their selection has been made entirely with a view to the efficiency of the Artillery and implies no blame or degradation to the batteries thus combined. Many of the Batteries have served with distinction, and their enfeebled condition is attributable to the dangers and hardships they have encountered. Whenever circumstances will permit, the batteries will again be restored.

II. Colonel Walton of the Louisiana Washington Artillery will retain one section of Captain Miller's Battery with the best guns and horses of that company and turn over the rejected guns, horses, &c., to the proper Departments. The men of Captain Leake's Battery and those of Captain Anderson's are relieved from duty with the Louisiana Washtg. Artillery, and will be at once returned to their proper companies.

²⁸⁴ See the cartel in O. R., s. 117, pp. 266-68.

²⁸⁵ See O. R., s. 28, pp. 652-54.

III. The ten companies of the first regiment Virginia Artillery, Col. Brown, will be formed into six. The officers of the Batteries of Captains Wyatt, Coke and Ritler, except 1st Lieut. Thormond of Wyatt's, 1st Lieut. Robinson of Ritler's, 1st Lieut. Pendleton and 2nd Lieut. Hawes of Coke's Batteries, are relieved from duty with their companies, and the men of those batteries will be distributed by Colonel Brown among the retained companies. Captain Young's company originally belonging to the infantry, will be returned to that branch of the service if it is preferred. Should they wish to continue in the Artillery, the officers will be relieved from duty, and the men distributed by Colo. Brown among the retained companies of his regiment.

IV. The four companies of Major Jones' Battalion will be formed into two. The officers of Captain Wimbish's and Captain Turner's Batteries are relieved from duty with their companies and the men will be distributed by Major Jones among the retained companies. Captain Peyton is relieved from duty with his company and 1st Lieut. Fry will assume command of it. Lieut. W. A. Deas is assigned to duty as 1st Lieut. Acting Lieut. Massie is assigned as Junior 1st Lieut., and Lieut. Hawes is assigned as 2nd Lieut. of said Battery. First Lieut. Jno. L. Grubbs of Captain Page's Battery is also relieved from duty with his company.

V. The four companies constituting Lieut. Colo. Cutt's Battalion will be formed into three. The officers of Captain Blackshear's Battery are relieved from duty with the company, and the men will be distributed as follows, twenty-two to Captain Ross, twenty-nine to Captain Lane, and the remainder to Capt. Patterson.

VI. The four companies of Major Nelson's Battalion will be formed into three. The officers of Captain Ancell's Battery are relieved from duty with their company and the men will be assigned to the two other Virginia companies in suitable proportion as Major Nelson may direct. Captain Huckstep and 2nd Lieut. Poatz are relieved from duty with their company, and 1st Lieut. Livingston Massie is assigned to its command. Lieut. Ancell is retained as 1st Lieut of this battery. 1st Lieut. Maddux heretofore attached to Captain Blackshear's Battery, is attached with his section to Captain Milledge's Battery. Lieut. Maddox will be the senior 1st Lieut. of the battery, Lieut. Rogers the junior first Lieut. and acting Lieut. Falligant of Lieut. Col. Cutts' Battalion is transferred to Milledges battery as senior 2nd Lieutenant.

VII. The three companies of Major Saunder's Battalion will be formed into two. The officers of Thompson's Battery, late Grimes', are relieved from duty with the company, and the men will be distributed by Major Saunders between Moorman's and Huger's Batteries.

VIII. The officers of Captain Lloyd's Battery are relieved from duty with the company and fifty-five of the men will be assigned to Capt. Manley's Battery, Genl. McLaws' division and the remainder to Captain Reily of Genl. Hood's division.

IX. The officers of Captain Chapman's Battery of General Featherstone's Brigade are relieved from duty with their company, the men and horses will be assigned to Captain Pegram's Battery.

X. The officers of Captain Brown's Battery, "Wise Artillery" are relieved from duty, and the men and horses are assigned to Colo. S. D. Lee's Battalion.

XI. The officers of Captain George Washington Nelson's Battery are relieved from duty with their company. Twenty of his men will be assigned to Captain Kirkpatrick's company, Major Nelson's Battalion, and forty to Capt. Woolfolks' Battery, Colo. S. D. Lee's Battalion.

XII. The officers of Captain Jno. R. Johnson's Battery are relieved from duty with the company. The men and horses will be distributed equally between Capts. Dearing and Pegram.

XIII. The officers of Captain Rogers' Battery Loudoun Artillery are relieved from duty with the company. The men and horses will be assigned to Capt. Stribling's Battery.

XIV. The officers of Captain Anderson's Battery Thomas Artillery, except the two senior Lieutenants, are relieved from duty with the company. The men and horses, and two senior Lieutenants are assigned to Captain Caskie's Battery.

XV. The officers of Captain Leake's Battery are relieved from duty with the company. The men and horses are assigned to Captain Thomas Carter's Battery.

XVI. The officers of Capt. Thomas Jefferson Page's Battery are relieved from duty with the company. The men and horses will be distributed among the Virginia companies under Colonel S. D. Lee, to whom Captain Page and Lieut. Magruder will report for duty.

XVII. The officers of Captain Fleet's Battery, Middlesex Artillery, are relieved from duty with the company. The men heretofore temporarily assigned, will remain with the batteries where they now are serving. The remainder of the men will be assigned to Captain M. Johnson's Company.

XVIII. To insure the speedy and proper reorganization of the Artillery as ordered, the Chief of Artillery will direct Colonels Brown and S. D. Lee to assist him in the execution of this order, and will assign to such companies as may not have their complement of officers, such of those hereby relieved from duty as he may deem necessary.

XIX. In every case, the best guns and horses and equipments will be selected for the batteries retained in service. All surplus horses will be turned over to the Chief Quarter Master of the Army, and all rejected guns, equipments, &c., to the Ordnance Department. The guns, &c., will be forwarded to Staunton without delay." D. S. B-31-39.

Thompson Brown, Lt. Col. Thos. H. Carter and Lt. Col. H. P. Jones is hereby appointed for the artillery of the 2nd Army Corps, to meet at the camp of that command, on the 27th April, 1863, or as soon thereafter as practicable, to examine into the cases of such officers of the command as may be brought to their attention, for the purpose of determining their qualifications for the discharge of the duties properly appertaining to their several positions, whether they are careless or inattentive in the discharge of the same and their fitness for promotion to any existing vacancies in their respective commands. The Board will be sworn, will have power to summon witnesses, will keep a record of its proceedings, will give an opinion in each case and will be careful to conform to the requirements of Genl. Orders No. 50 from these Hd. Qrs. of 29 March, 1863."

"The attention of all Examining Boards is called to the following instructions received from the War Dept.:

'When the board shall be of the opinion that the officer is clearly unfit to perform his legitimate and proper duties, or is careless or inattentive in the discharge of the same; the report should be separate and complete as to each case; showing the order under which it acted; that the officer was present before the board, or notified to attend, and giving the evidence taken in the case and the examination of the officer if one was made.

Should the unfitness of the officer to perform his legitimate and proper duties proceed from physical disability, the character of that disability as to performance should be shown.

In the examination of an officer for promotion by seniority to fill a vacancy, the Board will consider as an element in their inquiry, the reasonable probability of improvement on his part, so that though he may be at the time unfit for promotion to a higher office he may not be clearly unfit to fill his present position.

Should the board desire to test the officer's knowledge of tactics practically, the result of their observations and the military exercise performed, should be properly stated.

The Act of Congress does not require, when the decision of the board is favorable to the officer, that anything more than the decision should be forwarded. Each board can, therefore, include in one report, all the cases it has passed on favorably.

As many vacancies may be created by the result of these examinations, it is desirable that the names of subalterns and enlisted men, deserving promotion, should be furnished by the board, that the vacancies may be filled by those who are most entitled and will promote the efficiency of their respective organizations.

The authority vested in Brigade Commanders by Par. VI, General Orders No. 43, Adj. & Insp. Genl's. Office, 1862, is limited to promotion by seniority when competency is not questioned.'³⁰⁰

"I. In pursuance of instructions from the War Department the following regulations are published for the information and guidance of the Army.

II. The exportation of cotton, tobacco, rice, sugar, molasses, and naval and military stores from the Confederate States, or into any part of the Confederacy occupied by the enemy, except under the regulations of the President, is prohibited by law. It is therefore ordered that none of the articles above enumerated be permitted to pass the lines of this army on the way to the territories of the United States, or to any part of the Confederate States occupied by the enemy, without permission under the authority of the Secretary of War to transport the same.

III. Such permission shall be exhibited by the person in charge of the goods to the commissioned officer commanding the pickets at the place where it is desired to pass the lines and the officer shall examine the same, and if they conform in quantity, kind and description with the permission, they shall be allowed to pass, unless the officer shall have been otherwise instructed. In every case where the carrier has a proper permit, such assistance and protection as it may be possible to afford him consistently with other duties, will be given by those officers to whom he may apply.

IV. Should no permission under the authority of the Secretary of War be exhibited, or should the goods be greater in quantity or different in kind and description from those mentioned in the permit, the commissioned officer commanding the picket will take possession of the same, and of the vehicles and teams, or the animals used in conveying the same, and of any slave employed therewith, and deliver them with a detailed report of his action in the premises to his commanding officer, who will turn over the goods and other property seized, to the nearest marshal or deputy marshal of the Confederate States, taking a receipt for the same, setting forth the quantity, kind and description of the property and person or persons from whom the same was taken, and shall forward said receipt, together with the report of the officer making the seizure to these Head Quarters.

V. In the execution of the foregoing regulations, no waste, spoliation, damage, or injury of any kind shall be done to the property, nor shall it or any part of it be disposed of except as above directed. All seizures or examinations will be made only under the supervision of the commissioned officers above mentioned, who will be responsible for the prompt and safe delivery of the property as directed." O. C. G-8-1.

1864, Apr. 4, Hd-Qrs. A. N. V. Chas. Marshal[1], [by order Genl. R. E. Lee,] to [Lt.-] Genl. [R. S.] Ewell.

"General,

The commanding General directs me to call your attention to the Gen. Order herein enclosed, and to say that it is desirable that it shall be executed without letting it become generally known that there is such an order, or that the traffic referred to in it is allowed. It would defeat the object of the Department if the enemy became aware that the trade referred to was assuming systematic form. The Genl. comdg. directs me to say that he thinks the object of the order can be satisfactorily accomplished, if you will communicate it to the brigade commanders, with a caution not to give publicity to it, and direct them to cause general instructions to be given to the pickets to stop any wagons, animals, &c., laden with the prohibited articles that may attempt to pass the lines, or that may be found en route within their commands, and report them at brigade Hd. Qrs. The brigade commander will then be able to see whether the carrier has a proper passport, and otherwise cause the order to be executed without an undue publication of it. He will also see that there is no unwarrantable interference with the goods, and give such assistance and protection in proper cases, as he can consistently with his other duties. It is the object of the authorities to encourage the importation of supplies by the means indicated, and you will appreciate the importance of concealing the fact that the trade is carried on under its sanction. The trade itself must be known to the enemy, but those engaged in it will probably be able to manage that difficulty if they appear to be engaged only on their private ventures."

Endsd: For information of Brigade Commanders—the order will not be published to the troops—when necessary communicate it in confidence to officers in charge of pickets and outposts. R. W. Hunter, by command Maj.-Genl. Johnson. Apr. 20, 1864. O. C. G-8-2.

“The following letter from the Secretary of War to Major General Magruder is published for the information of the forces in this Department.

‘Richmond, War Dept., Jany. 25, 1862.

‘Sir:—

I have received your letter of the 15th inst., making two enquiries concerning the recent law of Congress, relating to re-enlistments.

To your first enquiry, I reply, that in the call upon any State, for its quota for the common defence, the Volunteers from that State who enlist for the War, will be considered as forming a portion of said quota.

To your second enquiry, I reply, that such Troops, as are re-enlisted under the recent Act of Congress, are forces raised by Congress, by virtue of a plain provision of the Constitution. The re-enlisted Regiments are authorized by the law to elect their Field Officers; and it is not supposed that any objection will be made in any quarter, to an enactment so clearly within the power of Congress.

Your obd't serv't.,

1862, Feb. 3, Yorktown, [Va.,] Hd-Qrs. Army Peninsula. G. O. 142. Sig: G. A. Magruder, A. A. A. G., by order Maj.-Genl. [J. B.] Magruder.

Appointment of John Donnell Smith, of Baltimore, Md., as Actg. A. D. C. P. D. S. B-31-8.

1862, Feb. 4, Yorktown, Va., Hd-Qrs. Army Peninsula. G. O. 143. Sig: G. A. Magruder, A. A. A. G., by order Maj.-Genl. [J. B.] Magruder.

Office of Genl. comdg. is besieged by officers and enlisted men presenting applications for leaves of absence and furloughs. This is contrary to orders—must be forwarded by mail or express through comdg. officers—disobedience to this order will not be tolerated—no applications will be entertained unless number of officers and men absent is stated, with their post offices—form specified. P. D. S. B-31-9.

Order for mustering out of 1st La. Batln—disposition of their equipment—appreciation of their services.—The “enemy in vast numbers” is at the front—the Genl. comdg. hopes the command will not emulate the Pennsylvanians at Manassas “who moved to the rear to the sound of the enemy’s cannon”—while publishing this order, the Genl. comdg. is satisfied no company will avail itself of it, until reinforcements have arrived to “meet successfully the impending blow”—thanks to Lt.-Col. Righton and the Batln. D. S. F-20-4.

1862, Mch. 30, Lee’s Farm, [Va.,] Hd-Qrs. Army Peninsula. S. O. 704, VII. Sig: Henry Bryan, A. A. G., by command of Maj.-Genl. [J. B.] Magruder.

We desire to concur in a testimonial of appreciation of your services, in a form most agreeable to you—we believe a letter setting forth the reasons for our esteem is the best form—you have long been connected with this division, as Colonel, as Brigade Commander, as Division commander—Since Winder's death your name is indissoluble from the division's glory—you participated in every possible conflict and bear signs of a severe wound, "and scars are the signs by which the Veterans of the division are known"—your skill, vigilance and solicitude for the troops—your maintenance of discipline "by combining with firmness that courteous and gentlemanly bearing, which makes obedience a pleasure"—we hope you will be made a Major-General.

Yours of Sept. 14th to Sec. Seddon, has been referred to me—you are mistaken in supposing the government makes special exchanges—we have steadily refused to make them as they are unjust to those not selected—when prisoners are sent South, the Federal authorities make the selections, not we—ready to return equivalent for any officer in confinement, but cannot designate those sent—would show partiality when all have done their duty well—if the Federals send you to City Point, will give an equivalent for you—will do same in the case of any other officer—show this to the others.

I am informed that the requisitioned 32-pdr. navy guns cannot be supplied—ask that requisition be made on the Navy dept. for 2 nine-inch shell guns and 1 32-pdr. of the 57 cwt. size—I suggest the shell guns be mounted on either side of the Hampton road, or that the 32-pdr. be placed in the English redoubt, to fire over the head of the troops at any enemy approaching by the Hampton road or by the Apple Orchard route south of the N. C. camp—if these guns cannot be fur-

1863, Jany. 14, Richmond, [Va.] G. W. Randolph to Col. J. Thompson Brown.

"Dear Thompson

Yours of the 12th inst. as well as your very kind letter from Winchester were duly received, and I should have written to you long ago if I had known where to direct my letter. I enclose back to you the letter from Genl. Richardson in reference to the Parrote Gun.³⁸⁸ He is right about it. Genl. Smith brought it from Lexington and I got it from him as a loan to the Howitzer Battalion. I obtained another from the Armory and assigned one to the second and the other to the third Howitzer Company. The Gun belonging to the third company opened the fight at Bethel, and is the piece wanted by Genl. Richardson. I think I would let it go and get another in its place. It will be kept as a trophy at Lexington with suitable inscriptions, and notwithstanding Genl. R.'s confidence in the company I think that it will be less liable to the accidents of war at Lexington than in the service.

I am not to be Governor as you hope. That office will be embraced in some log rolling distributions of the various offices about to become vacant.³⁸⁹ I do not desire it, preferring infinitely the gentlemanly ease of private life to the care-worn feverish existence of the Politician. I want nothing in the shape of office. Upon resigning my post of Secretary I felt it my duty to report for service in the field not because I stood in need of the salary or desired command for its own sake, but because I thought it right to render such service as might be in my power. They referred my letter to the Attorney General, to try and get me out of commission, and failing in that I was informed after a delay of three weeks that I might take my choice between Echols's brigade or one proposed to be formed under Humphrey Marshall. Not thinking it right to displace Echols or the acting Brigadiers' Wharton and McCausland, and not desiring to care a command out of Humphrey Marshall's brigade, which had not men enough by half for one brigade, I sent in my commission and am now a private citizen.

I regret that I can do nothing for the cause, but I have the satisfaction of knowing that it is not my fault. Having lost a part of my wife's fortune in the South by the carelessness of a trustee, I shall be pinched to make both ends meet, and I have accordingly converted my basement diningroom into a law office and gone back again to the bar. I feel entire confidence in my capacity to get along and find the burdens I have now mere trifles compared with those under which "I grunted and sweated" while in office. I hope that this wretched war will soon wear itself out and that our old Richmond society may flourish as of old. It must be confessed that at present the social advantages of the Metropolis are few and far between. Can't you run down and see us, I can give you genuine tea and coffee and a wee drop of liquor."

“Colonel

In acknowledging receipt of your communication of 2d inst. with endorsement of Col. Brown in reference to a Parrott gun loaned to Capt. Geo. W. Randolph, formerly of the Howitzers, I have to say that with all respect for that gentleman and for the natural feeling of attachment of the company which has it in charge, it is nevertheless my duty to insist upon its return—I have no option, acting under instructions of the Governor and the Board of Visitors of the Virginia Military Institute.

The piece is invested with peculiar interest to the State and the Institution from the fact that it was the first gun of the war fired upon the enemy in Virginia, and from other interesting antecedents.

It was loaned to Capt. Randolph as a matter of personal favor by Genl. Smith, the superintendent, together with the ³⁹⁶ Cf. supra, p. 279.

12-pdr. Bronze Howitzer of a peculiar cast, a part of the Cadet's Battery upon the express condition that the pieces should be returned when called for.—It was not a military transaction between the Confederate and State Governments, but between individual officers—one of whom, Genl. Smith, had no authority to make the loan. A breach has, as you know, been made in the Cadets battery by the Revd. Genl. Pendleton having carried off, in defiance of orders, and lost to the enemy, one of the Howitzers. This loss is irreparable.

Allow me to say, that under the circumstances, it would afford me the greatest pleasure to meet fully the wishes of Col. Brown, for whom I entertain the highest respect and esteem, and of the gallant Company of his regiment, whose attachment to the piece is so natural and so honorable to them. All that I feel authorized to do is to consent that Col. Brown may retain present possession of the gun, upon his pledge to return it when called for—I feel this to be a respect due to him and the Company, which may be safely accorded, since I have no shadow of apprehension that the enemy can capture it from them. At the same time I trust and believe that our gallant troops will have conquered a peace, before it will be needful for the piece to be turned in. Col. Brown must understand however that it must finally be returned to the military academy of the State, where with the other pieces of artillery which have been loaned for the service of the Confederate States it will be preserved, with an inscription designating the battles in which each one of them has been used against the enemy. I have only the history of the Parrott gun to and including the battle of Bethel and Col. Brown will greatly oblige me by enlarging it to the period when the piece shall be returned to the state.⁸⁹⁷

I am, Colonel, with high respect and regards, very truly yours"

An association for the "relief of the poor of Richmond." Nov. 8, 1864. Rev. Dr. Chas. Minnigerode⁸⁹⁹ chosen President; Wm. D. Gibson, Treasurer; Wm. F. Gray, Secretary. Committee appointed to get the Soup House into condition; another committee to solicit contributions.

Nov. 10, 1964. The President reported a form of constitution. He was instructed to confer with the ladies of the "Union Benevolent Society" and secure their aid as visitors. A sum of "between $8,000 and $9,000" was reported collected by the committee; ample funds in sight; Major Maynard promises wood at government cost-prices; the government will sell meat, heads at $2, shins at $1. No purchasing agent yet chosen. Wm. A. Irving chosen Superintendent of the Soup house at $200. per month.

Abstract of the constitution: Art. 1: name—Art. 2: "The object of the Association is, to aid in the relief and support of the poor of the city of Richmond and its suburbs, by securing to them the daily supply of good and wholesome soup on such terms as will put it within the reach of all." Art. 3, Sec. 1:

Officers. Sec. 2: Duties of the Superintendent of the Soup House—to act as steward. Art. 4. Sec. 1: There shall be daily one or two distributions of soup, time of which is to be published, no distribution on Sunday. Sec. 2: Soup to be distributed by the guard on presentation of a ticket, received by the Superintendent. These tickets to be issued by the Treasurer on order from the poor visitors—visitors may also secure tickets and personally distribute them. Sec. 3: Tickets are not to be gratuitous—a quart soup ticket to cost not more than 25 cents, with the price fixed monthly by the executive committee. Treasurer to give notice of the hours of sale of tickets. Treasurer is not obliged to sell less than $1.00 of tickets. Sec. 4: Soup shall be of most “substantial and nourishing character.” Art. 5: Annual meetings to be held—date fixed—report. By-laws: 1. Ladies of the Union Benevolent Society are to act as Visitors and distribute tickets. 2. Two of the visitors shall attend the Soup house daily during the hours of distribution.

Nov. 24. “The Ladies” have accepted and will act as visitors—supply agent chosen. Soup house to be opened Dec. 1.

Dec. 9, 1864. W. P. Munford, Chairman Richmond Relief Committee, and the President given power to issue orders for tickets. Measures to be taken for the issue of bread—monthly meeting fixed.

Dec. 20, 1864. Another depository of tickets to be chosen—no more tickets to be sold at the Soup house—board reports pleasure at the quality of the soup and the condition of the House. Superintendent to provide for the sale of offal—to make regular reports of sales—tickets to be returned to the Treasurer by the Superintendent every second day.

Jan. 10, 1865. The supply agent reports, showing that additional funds will be needed.—A committee appointed to procure them.

Feb. 21, 1865. Committee appointed to visit the house and report the quality of soup being served. Two members report $14,298 collected by them—contributions in kind to be published.

Mch. 23, 1865. Committee to visit the soup house report they favor a reduction in the price of the soup—ordered to me sold at 50 cents the quart from this date.—Committee appointed to wait on the Council of the city and ask appropriation of $10,000 per month for two months. “On motion, Resolved that in view of the increased applications, the Treasurer is requested to furnish the President with a statement to the 25th inst. of the financial condition of the Association. "In the course of his remarks he spoke with much feeling of the immortal Jackson, who he said was now lying bleeding and desperately ill, and said if he should be removed from earth⁴¹² we would sustain a great loss, though he knew it would be to Jackson's gain. Spoke of his pure Christian virtue and lofty patriotism. He also spoke of Lee in the same tone, held them up as lights for men [to] walk by. As he spoke of Jackson, many a strong heart gave way to their feelings in a flood of tears and none felt the force of his remarks more than myself and in conclusion he offered up a feeling and eloquent prayer in behalf of both Lee and Jackson our army and our country, the men paid marked attention to what he said. He preached out in an open field, the men sitting on the ground around him, officers and all. It was a picturesque looking scene." A. L. S. R-2-4.

1863, July 4, Hd-Qrs. Monroe, La. E. Kirby Smith, Lt.-Genl. to Genl. J. E. Johnston, comdg. Vicksburg, etc.

"General: On the 29th ultimo, I received at Shreveport a letter from Gen. Elgy, Vol. Aid to Gen. Taylor, conveying information from you of the critical condition of the garrison at Vicksburg. I proceeded immediately to this point, on the road I met Lt. Cunningham with your despatch of the 26th June. I find it impossible to do anything from this side for the relief of Vicksburg. When Gen. Taylor with all the disposable force of the District was ordered opposite Vicksburg I believed much would have been achieved. Gen. Taylor was instructed to spare no exertions in throwing supplies into Vicksburg. His efforts were vain, the main objects of the expedition, the relief of Vicksburg was unaccomplished. Gen. Taylor reporting it impossible to do anything more, returned to Alexandria, proposing to conduct in person the operations opposite Port Hudson. I approved of Gen. Taylor's course, as the troops were not withdrawn from opposite Vicksburg, but were left under the command of Maj. Gen. Walker, and as Gen. Taylor's presence was needed below, and as a communication had just been received from you announcing the investment of Vicksburg and Port Hudson, stating that you were arranging for the relief of the former place and calling upon me to do all that I could for the relief of the Garrison of Port Hudson.

At the time of Gen. Taylor's arrival here, the force concentrated at his disposal numbered about 7000; operating in the swamps of the Mississippi, sickness has reduced them to less than 4000 effective—The enemy here, reinforced and are prepared and on the lookout. The relief of Vicksburg from this side which Gen. Taylor with his force found impossible, is with the means now at my command absolutely impracticable. I enclose you a copy of a communication on this subject from Gen. Walker. I have taken steps for communicating with Gen. Pemberton, and for throwing in a supply of caps which I hope will prove successful; I have written him that he can expect no aid from this side, that his sole hope is in cutting his way through the enemies line, that he must by sending out information determine the day when by a simultaneous attack of both your forces on same point, the garrison may be extricated; that on his information, I will in advance make some demonstration, with the hope of drawing to this side a portion of the investing force. Any escape of the garrison by the river is I believe impracticable, it, with the character of the Peninsula opposite, is an insurmountable obstacle to success.

Finding nothing is to be done opposite Vicksburg, I have ordered Gen. Walker to occupy a point above Lake Providence, which, while his flanks are protected, and his retreat secured, offers advantages for interrupting communications on the river.”

"Sir

In compliance with your instructions in regard to opening Telegraph Offices at Secessionville and Battery Haskell, I have communicated with Mr. Jas. W. Kates, Genl. Supt. of the Harbor Defence Telegraph Line and am requested by him to say that if requisition is made through him or to Department Hd. Qrs. direct, he will immediately upon receiving the order proceed to do as you desire. We have wire sufficient to do the work and can probably procure the necessary Instruments for those offices. The greatest difficulty under which the Supt. labors is in getting the services of competent operators. The line at present and for some time back has been very short of capable Telegraphist so much so that at each station one oper has to do the work and watching of three. The refusal on the part of the Government to pay the same salaries paid by the Telegraph Companies caused this state of things. As over half of the operators quit finding that they could not sustain themselves on the amount paid while cost of living, &c., was increasing. The demand for good operators throughout the Confederacy is great and on the increase and they pay from 2 to 300$ salary per month on those civil lines, according to position and expenses. As long as the military lines will not pay as much as the civil lines this — difficulty will exist, more particularly as the labors on this line in point of night as well as day are so much more laborious and if anything the importance of correct and faithful service being rendered, competent men are more needed here, and men of small experience would be of little avail and might do our cause a serious injury. You asked me this A. M. about learning men and making them competent—I will answer the question by saying that the Supt. has given a fair opportunity to new beginners under Gov. auspices (Signal Corps of Savannah) and in but one instance they had to be returned to their positions for want of a thorough knowledge of the business. Some it's true learn to read and write by Telegraph in an incredible short time, but the mere knowledge of being able to manipulate does not fit him to take charge of an instrument, and a much longer time is necessary than one not familiar with the business would think. Causes continually arising from the elements, &c., may exist and prevent the working of the lines, that Experience and a thorough knowledge of atmospheric Electricity and the governing laws of Electricity, can only remedy, and if such should be the case an incompetent man would do you no good when you would most want the services of the Telegraph.

The position of affairs with us demand men of capacity because they are needed at once. I have taken the liberty of making these remarks, which are somewhat irrevolent to the subject matter with the hope that you might deem it expedient to make some suggestions to the Dept Hd Qrs in order to procure additional aid on the Government Tele Line &c.

The above is very respectfully submitted."

"Dear Sir

In behalf of the Board of supplies for the city of Peters-our city, we would most respectfully ask, that you allow our Committee to purchase a portion of the Toll meal, ground for the Government in order to give relief, to that portion of our population, who are now in great destitution and want. Since our City has been beseiged, there has not been any Corn ground on individual account, and none brought to market for sale, in consequence of the interruption of our Roads by the Raiders. We deem it proper to state, that our millers when grinding, on toll for individuals, sold the toll meal, at $10 pr. Bushel, and in one or two instances it has been given to the Committee without charge. We hoped the vegetable crop would have afforded great relief, but in that we are disappointed, as the late drought has all most entirely destroyed the crop. We trust that since our Roads have commenced running again, that the receipt of corn will be sufficient for you to allow us to purchase such quantity of the Toll meal as can be spared without detriment to the Army.

We feel assured that you will render us all the assistance you can, in behalf of the Board,

Very Respectfully Yours"

The suffering of the families of soldiers, and of the poor of the city, is at this time greater than I have ever known. I do not know where any relief is to come unless from the source appealed to by the President of the Board of Supplies.

I consider it not only a meritorious, but an urgent and necessary application: These people must be provided for, and it only can be done by the assistance of the Govt. in some form and all other means but this have been exhausted." W. W. Townes, Mayor. July 28, 1864. A. S.

I know that the statement made by Mr. Young is in accordance with facts and that the poor of this city to a considerable extent are suffering for and in want of bread. I would therefore suggest that authority be given me to allow the millers here to retain the toll in kind of meal three days out of every seven, during the month of August, to be sold at rates not to exceed the terms herein mentioned, and exclusively to the needy, the issuing of same to be immediately under the direction of the 'Board of Supplies.'" Comdg. &c. Many of these poor people have been driven from their homes and have lost all of their supplies—their gardens have been destroyed by our own troops in many cases—many have been deprived of all means of support from the stopping of operation in many of the factories of the city. The case seems to me to deserve a favorable consideration. I believe it can be granted without injury to the Government. The amt. asked for in one month, supposing corn meal was issued to the troops each day, would not exceed one day's rations to the army and I recommend that the suggestion of Major Tannahill, C. S. be allowed viz: that the millers be allowed to sell to this committee the regular toll three days in seven." R. G. Cole, Lt.-Col. A. S.

3. "Respectfully forwd. and recommd. Numerous applications have been made to me by women and children for bread—I have no means of supplying them. The soldiers of this army will willingly relinquish if necessary the amount of meal asked for." R. E. Lee, Genl. Aug. 2, 1864.

4. "To Commy. Genl.

This application demands immediate attention. I recognize the necessity of supplying the wants of these suffering poor and do not see how it can be better done than in the mode suggested. So unless you have a preferable mode of supplying to suggest." J. A. S[eddon]. Aug. 4, 1864.

5. "Resp'y ret'd. to Hon Sec. of War. On the 15th April, the C. G. S. placed the following endorsement on a letter of Genl. Braxton Bragg, directing, by the order of the President, that in future the millers grinding for this Bureau; in this city, should not be allowed to sell their toll meal to the poor of the city, but should furnish the whole product of their mills to the Gov't. The argument then used was independent of seasons, ripening crops or facilities of transportation.

'Resp'y refd. to Sec. of War. The judgment of the Pres'd't that the meal now allowed to Messrs. Haxall &

Crenshaw as toll, shall be appropriated to the use of Gov't as a military necessity, can be executed; for while the contract protects the toll from impressment, a clause in it provides for the purchase of the toll, at a price fixed by appraisers selected by the two parties to the contract. Such will be greatly to the interest of Haxall & Crenshaw, for they have sold their toll to citizens at a price half that ruling in the market, but in my judgment, the abstraction of that amount of bread-stuff from them will be injudicious, while not adding materially to the resources of Gov't, for: 1st: The poor are greatly aided by the liberality of the firm employed by Gov't, and 2nd, the people must live, and what would be brought to them here from the south and from other portions of this state, would be available for collection by our agents, and its collection by them would just so much diminish the demand for transportation from the south. This is merely a consideration of equivalents, but the moral consideration, that the Govt. will is auxiliary to the wants of the poor, is of value, and is effected without any expense to Gov't. I resp'y suggest to the Sec. of War that he endeavor to sustain his own decision previously given, as sounder than any other less matured.'

"C. G. S. can see no difference between the two cases. He has no alternative plan of supplying poor of Petersburg, to suggest, and remits the question to the Hon. Sec. of War, for his directions." L. B. Northrup. C. G. S. Aug. 4, 1864. A. S.

6. "Com. Gen.

As the action of the President was confined to the toll here, let them in Petersburg, which is now strictly in a state of siege and the people more straitened, be applied to their use." J. D. S[eddon], Sec. Aug. 4, 1864.

PAPERS RELATING TO THE TRIAL OF JEFFERSON DAVIS: THE SHEA MEMORIAL.

The heirs of the late George Shea, Chief-Justice of New York, have deposited in the museum those papers of that eminent lawyer which relate to the trial of Jefferson Davis. In conjunction with Charles O'Connor, also of counsel for Mr. Davis, Mr. Shea began correspondence with the friends of the prisoner in July, 1865; and this continued, without intermission, until the hearing of the motion to quash the indictment. These papers, as preserved by Shea, consist of autograph copies or drafts of letters written by him, together with the originals of letters sent him by other persons connected with the defence. The file is not complete, but the preparation of the defence, the gathering together of evidence and the plans for the betterment of Mr. Davis' condition can be followed somewhat in detail. The lack of information on some essential points is doubtless due to the fact that important matters were decided in personal interviews between counsel, while, at the same time, they were careful not to express themselves freely in writing from a fear that their letters might be intercepted.⁵⁰⁹ ⁵⁰⁹ Published material on the Davis trial is not abundant. Davis speaks of it briefly in his Rise and Fall, v. 2, (N. Y., 1881), and Mrs. Davis gives some facts in her Jefferson Davis, v. 2, (N. Y., 1890). Dodd in his Jefferson Davis (Phila., 1907), gives a similarly brief account. Gen. Bradley T. Johnson prepared an elaborate Report, which is, unfortunately, very rare. C. M. Blackford's article, The Trials and Trial of Jefferson Davis (Rich., 1900), is an excellent review of the trial from the standpoint of an able lawyer. He has little to say, however, of the preparation of the defence. George Shea, in an article in the New York Tribune of Jan. 24, 1876, which was reprinted in the So. His. Soc. Papers, v. 1, pp. 316-325, and published separately as Jefferson Davis: A Statement concerning the Imputed Special Causes . . . (Lond., 1877), gives an excellent summary of the preliminary proceedings.

1865, May 27, "On Steamer Clyde." Mrs. V. C. Clay to Hon. Ben. Wood.

My Dear Sir,

The circumstances of my husband's voluntary surrender to the U. S. authorities are well known to you. You will pardon me if I add a line explanatory. Mr. Clay was en route to Texas when he first saw the astounding proclamation. He retraced 175 miles and presented himself to Gen. Wilson's H. Qrs. at Macon,⁵¹⁰ Mr. Davis and party arriving next day. We were all sent via Atlanta and Augusta to Sav. There we Embarked, as we tho't for the scene of trial, Washington. After anchoring in Hampton Roads for five days and nights, Mr. Clay was taken to Fortress Monroe, and I left aboard ship without a single male acquaintance, and under guard. I meant of course to go to Washington to engage counsel for my husband, and assist him in every and any manner possible. Judge my surprise to learn that I cd. not even land to see the prison, nor cd. I go anywhere, but back to the South! Nor for days were we permitted any communication ashore, nor even to see a paper. But we were boarded by two women, a Maj. and 4 guards, and thoroughly searched, cabin, baggage, and person, wh. you may imagine amazed me, a poor private lady passenger, who accompanied her husband by permission of Gen. Wilson, without order or restriction. But prisoners must expect and endure indignities, and I do not complain. The object of this hasty note is to invoke your kindly aid in behalf of my dear and noble husband. I rejoice that you know him however slightly, for you cannot have failed to discern his sterling and admirable character. His Honor is far dearer to him than life, and he could not live under the foul brand of assassin. That you, and indeed the great majority of the northern people believe him innocent and ignorant of the means and manner of the heinous crime imputed to him I cannot doubt.⁵¹¹ But as some shadow of testimony seems to inculpate him, he must be vindicated. All I ask for him, is the "full, fair, and impartial trial" he expects to receive and I "shall fear no evil." May I beg that you will assist him in obtaining that as far as possible without compromising yourself? You might see and confer with Mr. F. Peirce,⁵¹² and Judge Black.⁵¹³ I wish Mr. Carlile⁵¹⁴ of Washington, and Mr. Chas. O'Connor⁵¹⁵ of your city employed as counsel, and will be obliged if you will see and engage the latter's services. I will immediately set to work and obtain monies to defray all expenses, so do not hesitate to make any outlay necessary to summon witnesses, etc.

Meantime, I know you will by strong but moderate articles, exert all your influence to bias public opinion favorably towards all the prisoners now held by Federal power. My husband's opinion of you, as often expressed to me, is my only apology for this inelegant note. We are in a transport ship, without any comforts, and this the 12th day! I have agonized in seasickness until to-day, when being at anchor, I have risen and written you this incoherent letter. Pardon error and may God bless you forever for any aid He may put in your heart to give me at this hour.

Do write me a line to Macon, Geo. under cover to Richard Cuyler and greatly oblige me.

Respectfully Yr friend.

I hope to be allowed to go to Washington at the trial, but fear denial to heart-sickness."

⁵¹³ Doubtless Judge J. S. Black of Buchanan's cabinet.

⁵¹⁴ Probably John S. Carlile, formerly of Virginia. Carlile's political views, however, little suited him for such a task.

⁵¹⁵ Charles O'Connor, "premier of the American bar." He was born in 1804, and early took up the practice of his profession, which he pursued until his death. His first famous cause was the Forrest divorce case, in which he appeared as counsel for Mrs. Forrest. He later acted for Virginia in arguing the case of Napoleon vs. Lemmon,—the so-called "Lemmon slave case,"—before the Supreme Court of New York. He also acted in the Jumel will case, in the prosecution of the Tweed ring and appeared before the Electoral commission as one of Tilden's advisers in 1877. He was a Democrat, and gladly took up the Davis and Clay cases. He died in 1884.

1865, July 3, New York. Geo. Shea to Mrs. V. C. Clay.

Yours of May 27 handed me by Wood—affected by it—I gladly acquiesce in Wood’s desire that I act as Clay’s counsel, and see that he had trial or is discharged for want of prosecution—am already engaged to defend Jefferson Davis and in communication with O’Conor thereon—have but recently returned from Washington—saw Attorney-General⁵¹⁶ and went to War Department—is very clear Davis will not be tried in Washington—if at all, either in Baltimore, before Chase, or in Pennsylvania—“But it is by no means certain that Mr. Davis will be tried.”—most certainly not by a military tribunal—if this is the course with Davis, Clay and the others need have no trouble—Asst. Atty. Genl.⁵¹⁷ promises every facility and ample time for defence when trial is determined upon—No person of influence believes the charges against Clay, as to the assassination of Lincoln—Greeley frequently expressed want of belief—O’Conor has written you—he had asked and been refused for the present an interview with Davis—I do not know whether the same strictness will be enforced in Clay’s case—will apply for an interview—no cause for anxiety as to Clay’s ultimate release—government will not follow bad policy attributed to it by some papers—could give reasons for this view—felicitations. “I hope that another Fourth of July will see us all of one heart as well as of one Nation.”⁵¹⁸

A. C. S. SM-19-1.

1865, July 3, New York. Geo. Shea to Mrs. Varina Davis.

Was asked by leadings gentlemen of the city, about middle of May, to act professionally for Davis—accepted—had my views as to what was best for the country in the case—knew these views were also held by influential men whose aid might be invoked—the honor of the nation was bound up in the method of trial, especially in Davis’ case—I heard with great pleasure that the trial was to be civil and that communications should go to the Attorney General, not the War Department ⁵¹⁶ James Speed of Kentucky.

⁵¹⁷ J. Hubley Ashton. See O. R., s. 121, p. 782.

⁵¹⁸ The letter probably was not sent until July 4.

—am also informed trial will not be in Washington, but in Baltimore, under Chase, or in Pennsylvania—thought until to-day there would be no trial, but certain gentlemen want some issues of public law decided—think this trial might effect it with no harm to Davis—do not think government will “aid this notion.”—conferred with O’Conor before going to Washington—enclose letter from him—O’Conor’s great ability—my friend Greeley showed us your letter of the 22nd ulto⁵¹⁹—he did not think its private character meant to apply to counsel—I wish to ask certain questions—will wait for an answer—do not know what surveillance may be over your correspondence—you ask about Davis’ treatment—At my request Truman Smith asked Stanton “who answered ‘that there was no truth in the newspaper stories, and that he knew of no mis-treatment.’”⁵²⁰ I trust this is true—believe Davis is constantly confined at Fortress Monroe—if on any vessel, a gun-boat—correspondence with Mrs. Clay—no just cause for anxiety—government will not follow advice of some newspapers.—Asst. Atty. Genl. assures facilities for defence—if Davis is not brought to trial, steps for his release will be taken—reassurances of Davis’ safety—have hopes for a general amnesty.

A. C. S. SM-19-2.

1865, July 14, Savannah, Ga. Mrs. Varina Davis to Geo. Shea.
“My dear Sir,

Your kind letter of the 3rd inst⁵²¹ was duly received, but must have met with a good deal of detention upon the road, perhaps in the “circumlocution office” for a copy of Mr. O’Conner’s letter to me which you enclosed, and which he had dispatched through a channel which I suggested to him, reached me some days earlier. I forwarded Mrs. Clay’s letter [to] her immediately, I am very sure it will be very welcome.

Please believe I feel more deep gratitude than language is granted me to express for [y]our disinterested desire to serve Mr. Davis.

⁵²¹ Supra.

'The poor make no new friends,
But oh they love the better far
The few their Father sends.'

Measure my thanks by my forlorn condition, and helpless womanhood. I perceive that you concur with Mr. O'Connor in the belief that Mr. Davis may not have a trial at all, but eventually may be pardoned, or transported, or something so. Perhaps a long imprisonment. The prospect is not inviting. I inferred from Judg Bingham's reiteration of the charge that Mr. Davis was accessory to Mr. Lincoln's assassination, made in his closing argument against the prisoners before the 'What is it?' that the government would certainly proceed to indictment, and trial for that crime.⁵²² Perhaps it is proposed to pardon him this punitive crime because the real assassin slain before a confession of his accomplices could be made, did not kill Mr. Lincoln's alternate. I have little patience with the false accusers, or their hollow pretences of magnanimity. If he is saved from an inquisitorial tribunal, it is only because the people would not have submitted to such a violation of the dearest right of a freeman. The manacles showed the animus of the government.⁵²³ Again, if Mr. Davis is tried for treason, and should happen to prove by that absolute instrument the constitution, that the federal government could not coerce a state, because all the powers not ceded to the federal government in the Constitution were reserved to the States, Mr. Johnson would find it awkward to pardon him for (if you choose to so characterise our secession) an inexpedient assertion of an undeniable right. For the rest—he has not even $20,000 left now,⁵²⁴ and has stolen the property of no person living or dead, nor yet of any fat corporation, consequently he is utterly contemptible; and beneath a pardon. How long oh Lord, how long! Falsely accused of every baseness, and inhumanity which could disgrace mankind without a shade of proof, a brave soldier, a devoted patriot, and honest gentleman lies in prison awaiting the next vial in popular opinion—In that helpless condition he has been pusilanimously insulted by a personal enemy who is now by accident “dressed” in a little brief authority.”⁵²⁵ Col. Pritchard⁵²⁶ reports of Mr. Chase’ answer to his question ‘what will be done with Mr. Davis’ was ‘I do not know, it remains to be seen what the feelings of the people will indicate.’ Not whether he was guilty but how the people would decide to dispose of him. I was gravely asked if I thought I could find counsel for him! I do not think the administration know any more than you do what they are going to decide upon. They are mousing among the archives of our government⁵²⁷ for something upon which to support accusations, and it depends upon their success whether Mr. Davis is done to death by ill treatment, a “military court,” or a public trial.—And combining business with pleasure, Quidnuncs are polluting with their unhallowed gaze the precious records of my few happy hours, and turning an honest penny by selling garbled extracts from my Husband’s letters, and mine to those papers whose readers needing a gentle excitement are willing to pay for “readable matter.”

⁵²⁴ Mr. Davis' fortune had never been great, and after the war he was sometimes in straitened circumstances.

Mr. Stanton’s assertion that he knew of no ill treatment is disgusting. What is his standard of decency. Mr. Davis was taken from his family, every male protector having been previously withdrawn from them, and sent to different prisons. he was not advised that his was a final separation, put upon a tug boat with a high fever upon him, and placed in a casemated cell, though he had been forced while Sec. of War to remove strong men from those very casemates because they died of diseases superinduced by the dampness.⁵²⁸ He was there offered coarse food, such as a healthy man in constant habitual exercise might become hungry enough to consume but which a sick man, immured in a dungeon could not eat. I know this is so because Genl. Miles told me that he received soldier's rations and would be allowed to buy nothing. The destination of his helpless family was kept a secret from him as from them—And when mental and physical agony exerted themselves in impatience, he was manacled like a felon or a madman. The opinion of the world compelled Mr. Johnson, and Mr. Stanton to feed his body better, but his mind is given over to their tender mercies. In looking forward to his future, I pray that 'the wicked may cease from troubling' but I know that if they do not very soon cease, 'the weary will be at rest,' and then the strength and glory of my house will have passed away, but, 'as thy day is, so shall thy strength be,' watching, and praying as one whose only hope is in the God of justice, and love, I know he doeth all things well,' and though he slay us yet will I trust in him.'

Ever since Mr. Davis' incarceration I have been detained here—I was brought here against my will, had never been here before, and knew no friend to whom I could turn. Left with no other support than the small sum which the cupidity of the enemy, our captors had failed to ferret out and steal—I have been forced to spend as much in one month as I could have lived upon in a cheap place for a year or until Mr. Davis' case could be decided. Denied the comfort of telling him how his baby prisoners are⁵²⁹ or of sending one word of love to him. When his life was apparently hanging upon a thread, the government had not the humanity to send me notice of it, but every agony of his was published accompanied with jeers of the valiant editors, and hawked about the streets in extras.—I applied three days ago to go to Augusta to see my family, leaving all my children in Savannah, but was refused permission, because a prisoner within the limits of Savannah. Yet the government does not pay my expenses. I am accused of no wrong, yet am I confined here without redress, as I was conveyed here guarded by men armed with Spencer rifles, and bayonets and up to the hour of leaving Fortress Monroe, they guarded my door. If not relieved from the coerced visit to Savannah I fear I shall bury one of those precious ones who seem to cumber the ground now that their dear Father is no longer able to protect them. My infant who came here rosy, and gay is now drooping, and suffering from the whooping cough, contracted here where it is epidemic.—All the children are failing as well as I. Can Mr. Greeley do nothing for me—Can it be that the name of the unarmed helpless sufferer in Fortress Monroe is 'worth a thousand men.' Is it sought to prevent me from communicating with the outer world least the plea for justice may not be overpowered by the cry of 'crucify him.' For our down trodden people I crave the 'amnesty' whatever that may be, it is Protean and I cannot define it, unless it is their Adamic legacy confirmed to them by President Johnson—permission to breathe God's air, and to gain their bread by the sweat of their brows.

But as for me, and for mine, we crave no amnesty. We have been robbed of everything except our memories—God has kept them green. Friends, brothers, Husband, home strength, hope, even the graves of my dear children do not belong to me. There is no bond uniting us to the Northerners—A great gulf of blood rolls between and my spirit shrinks appalled from attempting to cross it. I am strong to suffer, but quite unable to offer friendship, or receive amnesty at the hands of the Federal "many headed monster thing" which has usurped the place of our grand old compact. If we get justice, I desire no favors. Mr. Johnson may pardon us like the Revd. Mr. Chadband whether we wish it or not, but he will never be asked. Byron somewhere describes my sensations as I look at the swarms of armed negroes, and Yankees who are standing like 'the abomination of desolation' where they 'ought not'—I quote from memory, and perhaps do not quote aright—'It is as though the dead could feel, The icy worm around him steal. Without the power to scare away, The cold consumers of the clay'⁵³⁰—If I am bitter against your people, it is because not only my men have been slain in battle, but one of my women kin has been deliberately murdered. However enough of this, I am unhinged by sorrow, and forget you have not lived in an invaded country and that consequently your ire has not been lighted at the funeral pyre of friends, and homes lost forever. Living in the closest friendship with Mr. Davis, I am cognizant of a great deal relating to his official conduct, and where I cannot speak from personal knowledge, could tell you in most instances where to apply to those who participated in his action. I have also a very valuable record in his letter book, but it is impossible for me to trust that in the Federal reach as it is now the only record which he has left of his official life⁵³¹—Files of the Richmond papers will best show the falsity of the accusations of cruelty to prisoners—For they contain one unbroken tirade against him for not consenting to emulate the Federal government in such atrocity.

Please if you write, direct your letter on the first envelope to Carrie Belle, on the next to W. F. Sergeant of this place, and I will certainly receive them speedily, and intact.

If so illustrious a combination of talent, energy, and good will as yours with Mr. O'Connor's fail to extricate Mr. Davis, vain is the help of man.

Confident of your whole power being exerted in the case, satisfied if justice can flow from a rock, that your rod will open the way, grateful beyond expression for your manly outspoken sympathy, pray consider me in any event yours very gratefully and sincerely—

P. S. The only injunction of secrecy which I intended to impose upon that kind, and fair minded old gentleman Mr. Greely, was that the newspaper people about his office should

The Ch[ief] J[ustice] is in Washington—"If you could get a letter to him from our friend⁵⁴³ and could spare time to see him some valuable information might be elicited." I want to write little by mail—reticence is to be taken as favorable—if Davis were to be tried by military tribunal, or where just administration of law was interfered with, or if he were in personal danger, I would write freely—am assured everything is going well—if I could communicate in person could give you much that would comfort you—do not believe what you read in the papers about trials—whenever a trial upon indictment is announced, “fair weather has set in”—a civil trial, even before Chase, is most fervently hoped for—still believe there will be no trial—certainly none before a military tribunal—take it the government has unequivocally declared this—have no forebodings—“Before a civil tribunal we are safe in our defence.”—more cannot be said—I go with O’Conor to-morrow to Baltimore and Washington—a chance for “further good” presenting itself there—will write on my return—send this as Mrs. Waller promises safe delivery—P. S. If there is a trial, be assured you will be enabled to attend—I have read your letter to Genl. 1865, Sept. 10, Washington, D. C. Fred[eric]k A. Aiken to Geo. Shea.

“My dear Sir:—

Mr. Sutton, the official Reporter of the Senate who will report Mr. Davis’ trial when it takes place, had, a day or two since an interview with Chief Justice Chase the substance of which he had given to me with the permission to communicate it to you. The conversation is kept close here. It is not known outside of the parties named as I believe it your wish and Mr. O’Conor’s that matters relating to the trial shall not be made public prematurely. The Chief Justice’s long intimacy and friendship with Mr. Sutton led him to speak quite freely and fully and I deem it of great importance that you should have the substance of the interview both for information and to see how it squares with what was said in your visit.

In the first place the Chief Justice said that he had no knowledge of any arrangements for the trial of Mr. Davis and that he had no expectation of presiding at such a trial at Norfolk as the newspapers have represented. He intimated that he could not preside in any of the seceding states until there had been some legislation in relation to them by Congress. Congress will not meet until the first Monday in Dec. next. The Supreme Court of the United States will meet on the same day and the Chief Justice said positively that he should not absent himself from the Bench of that Court during the Term. In the course of the conversation, as Mr. Sutton had intimated his intention to report the trial and to get it out in a creditable manner in book form, the Chief Justice replied, "If you wait for that purpose until I try the case you will wait a long time." This remark gives a peculiar significance to the remark made to me by yourself that there might not be any trial at all. The Metropolitan Record alluded to when you were here, I have mislaid. Can't find it. When do you think I had better visit New York for a day or so? As I have not written a similar letter to Mr. O'Connor I presume it would be well to tell him of this. The Wirz Trial is getting a little more interesting from the fact that, to use the classic words of Col. Chipman, the Judge Advocate, they are now implicating 'bigger fish.'

With my kind regards

I am very truly yr. ob't serv't"

J. R. Davis' request that suitable winter clothing be sent Davis—I called on Blair again—O'Connor or myself will go to Washington shortly—hope it will be O'Connor—Montgomery Blair⁵⁵⁷ said his mother had seen the president with request that you might see Davis—they had great hopes of it—Blair would have written you but would not anticipate, for fear of failure—everything that can make in favor of Davis is employed—“All is going well”—I think the government will enter civil prosecution from which Davis need fear nothing—as you may soon be on the way to see him, I will delay further news—congratulations on happy

He now proceeds to Canada to confer with the friends of these gentlemen there and to gather such information in aid of the defence as may be accessible.⁵⁶³

Of course you will be pleased to meet Mr. Shea and to further his objects as far as may be in your power.

It now seems highly probable that Mr. Davis at least, if not both of these gentlemen, will soon be tried in a Civil Court under some novel arrangements in acts of congress now in progress which are designed to facilitate their conviction. There is but one ground on which a doubt of their early trial would be warranted. A game of cross-purposes in Congress between the President's own proper party, and the extreme radicals might arise and might lead to delays, and an ultimate abandonment of the prosecution.

Strange as it may seem the persons most likely to urge the prosecution are of that faction in the Republican party which is likely to be the Republican Wing of Mr. Johnson's legion.

The last out-giving from Washington is an assertion of Mr. Stanton that Mr. Mallory⁵⁶⁴ would be tried in a civil court within thirty days. He did not say that this would be the first trial, but I infer that such was his meaning.

Thanks for your note of the 9th inst.⁵⁶⁷ The only question is whether some[one] ought to be sent to Washington, and, if need be, thence to Raleigh to investigate the premises. There is some difficulty in getting the right person to do this.

Forney⁵⁶⁸ has just written a very bloody military commission article. But in point of reasoning it is very feeble. It demonstrates the utter unfitness of a civil tribunal to meet the exigencies of the case and at the same time prove the utter inapplicability of any judicial process civil or military. In a word it establishes my doctrine that Power is remediless in the premises unless it dares to slay without form or ceremony.

Is not the controversy touching the invention of "Universal Amnesty and Universal Suffrage" very amusing?⁵⁷⁰

Would it be worth while to give a reprint from the Tribune of last summer, showing that it is a plagiarism.

Perhaps Horace would not incline to pluck any feathers from the tail of republican daw, but Ben. Wood of the News⁵⁷¹ would have no such scruple. I perceive that the Dead Duck has joined in chorus with the Black Douglass about traitors remaining unhangd.

What a pity it is that all scoundrelism could not be promptly and vigorously punished by bonds the lash or the gallows. If so Forney-cation would have become as infamous by this time as the Dead Duck wishes to make treason. Washington's example of its being a virtue notwithstanding.

Have received yours of 16—glad you are to be associated with O'Connor⁵⁷⁸—Mr. Davis' thanks—In regards to a letter for permission for an interview with counsel, Davis says application has been filed since June 7, in answer to a letter from O'Connor offering services—In this Davis said: “Though reluctant to trouble you with the labor of coming here, I must for the considerations indicated request you to obtain the requisite authority to visit me for the purpose of a free conference”⁵⁷⁴—A sentence in the letter was objected to—the request declared “premature” by Seward—letter recopied exactly, without the sentence—explanation of facts annexed—

Am back from New England—I saw all but one I went to see—success not equal to what had been hoped—memorial not yet in condition to be presented—mission not a failure—had from one of Johnson's responsible and chief advisers a letter to the President⁵⁹⁰—this ought to be quite as potential as a memorial from his opponents—this substantially the result of the week's work—will relate details when see you—notice the President's proclamation of peace⁵⁹¹ in this morning's paper —that removes all objection to Chase's granting Habeas Corpus, and "if he holds to his expressed opinions, releasing Mr. Davis on bail"—shall it be tried again—or shall we wait the effect of the letter referred to—will act as you direct—meanwhile I will work on the memorial. P. S. "The Chief Justice said he would act and admit to bail if such a proclamation was issued."

"Yours of the 20th is received.⁵⁹² To its various suggestions but one reply occurs to me.

The non-transmission of the memorial, be it good or bad, strong or weak, is an evil. I want it delivered to the President as soon as possible. I do not think it advisable to apply to Judge C.⁵⁹³ for a Hab. Corp.

I was misled about the memorial. I expected it to recommend a parole. This opinion induced action on my part which I regret and which may be producing some embarrassment. I will explain the more fully when we meet. But, I repeat, the action now most desirable is the immediate delivery of the memorial if it has only one name to it.

"Dear Sir

A statement in yesterday's Tribune⁵⁹⁵ renders it doubtful whether any court will be opened, even pro forma, in Richmond on Tuesday. Again a doubt exists in another direction. There is some indication of intent to open some kind of a court at Norfolk on that day. This coupled with some other circumstances places the affair in an awkward predicament.

If practicable I wish you could go on to Washington tonight and by seeing Chase, Underwood,⁵⁹⁶ Ashton,⁵⁹⁷ the Atty. General or some of them find out the actual condition of things and telegraph me about it to-morrow. I will see you before you leave.

Hospitality kept me in Richmond⁶⁰²—arrived yesterday afternoon—after conferring with those whose judgment is esteemed, I think we had better not commit anything to aid Davis' release to the hand of the gentleman of whom I at first thought so well⁶⁰³—it will only be mixed with some scheme for a general confiscation of southern property—this, if introduced, will be signally defeated in Congress—determined on another course—it cannot have a tendency to embarrass the President, if rightly regarded—and will “facilitate a disposition, if any exists,” on the part of the President to “manumit” Davis—I will draft the resolution “in the spirit of Mr. Gerrit Smith's letter”⁶⁰⁴—will be offered this afternoon or Monday by Senator Wilson—compliments to Miss Howell.

“The resolutions which I left with you last night at the Capitol,⁶⁰⁵ were not intended to be offered in the form proposed; but were purposely drafted more full than the occasion requires, so that you may have the whole case before you, and thus be enabled to make a resolution better suited to the temper of the Senate. In my judgment it would be well to have the resolution rest chiefly on the gross want of prosecution in the case.”—I return to New York to-morrow—will see Greeley—the Tribune will very warmly second the resolution when offered—I know Greeley had long wanted something done in the matter—and as the President will not act, I hope congress will not adjourn without showing that it at least has no part in the unjust and impolitic delay.

1867, Nov. 3, Canton, Miss. Jos. R. Davis to Geo. Shea.

"My dear Sir

Yours under cover to Col. Hooker was received a few days since, and would have been promptly answered, but that I waited in the hope of being able to say, I would join you in New York or Richmond. I fear it is not possible to meet you in either place. My negroes have not worked well, in my absence, and the consequence is, my cotton crop is not more than sufficient to pay current expenses, to get money for future operations, I have therefore, to rely on the sale of property (lands and lots). At the time of the reception of your letter I was negotiating for the sale of a summer residence on the sea shore, and hoped to realize from that enough to take me to Richmond and meet other demands, but find it will require some weeks yet to consummate the sale, and fear it will be too late to attend my Uncle's trial in Richmond. I would make any sacrifice to be with him on that occasion, and fancy that in some respects I might be useful, as a skirmisher or scout, for the main defensive line, at least. I was both amused and disgusted at Chase's letter to his 'Dear Underwood' and on first reading thought it was a hoax, is it possible that the Chief Justice of the U. States wrote such a letter?

I infer from the day named by you for the trial, that counsel have declined to avail themselves of the Chief Justice's kind offer, to remain a day or so, to hear a case of petty larceny, and rejoice at the declension. To appear before Underwood is bad enough, but on the whole, I would prefer him to Chase. I would give much to hear what you have to say about the case, and deeply regret that as matters now stand, it is impossible to be with you at Richmond. It is barely possible I may be able to join you, but I scarcely hope it. Since my return to Miss. have been constantly on my plantation gathering the small crops of cotton and corn made by my freedmen this season, and am near enough the end of havesting to see that I will fall short of expenses, and how to go on another year, I don't exactly see. If it was possible would sell out, and let my former slaves go where they are fast hastening, to the devil. You have no idea of the improvidence, and the worthlessness of the negro in his present condition. To give you the facts in my own case—This year I made contracts, with about twenty-five or thirty of my former slaves, selecting the best men and women, on the share system, giving them one third and one half of the crops, and I furnishing land, meat, corn, team, houses and farming implements, and the result is, I have lost several thousand dollars and the negroes will not have enough to buy winter clothes. By the way I am sorry to see that the functions of the 'Freedman' Bureau, are about to expire, it is unfortunate for the negro as within the next few years they will greatly need the charity of the Government, and won't you please say to Mr. Greely, that I as a Southern man, beg he will use the influence of his paper to continue the Bureau, and ask an appropriation from the Government of at least fifty millions of dollars per annum, for its support. I know it's a large sum, and much of it will be stolen by the patriotic agents of the Government, but it is my deliberate conviction that it will be needed to save the negro from starvation. If he is to be saved from ignorance, poverty and death, he must have the fostering care of the Government, as well as its protection, from the vicious.

We are to have an election in Miss. the present week. Few respectable white men take any interest in it and the convention will be composed of a few adventurous speculating Yankees, negroes, and perhaps a very small number of respectable white men. What a miserable farce will be Reconstruction in Miss. But enough of this. One word on personal matters. I see there has been Incorporated a Planters' Loan and Relief Association of which Mr. Greely, Marshal Jewell, Chas. Partrige, Horace F. Clarke, John T. Hoffman, W. R. Beebe, C. Brainard and E. M. Lee are Incorporators. The object is said to be to loan money to Planters on mortgage, that they may give employment to freedmen. As I would be glad to get money for that purpose, would make application to the company mentioned and give mortgage on a good plantation. Will you do me the favor to enquire of Mr. Greely or some of his associates, if it is a Bona fide concern, and if money can be obtained and at what rates, &c., &c.

If I can get money will plant cotton next year, not on the system of this, but another from which I would hope for a reasonable success. If I do not plant, and cannot sell, will try my fortune somewhere else. Could you suggest anything in your city?

I have inflicted on you a long rambling letter, and my only excuse is, I did not intend it, and beg you will excuse its length.

Please write me at your earliest convenience. With best respects to Mrs. Shea.

I am Res. your friend."

LETTERS OF J. M. MASON TO JEFFERSON DAVIS.

Among the letters of Ex-President Jefferson Davis were found a number written to Mr. Davis by J. M. Mason, Confederate Commissioner to England, during the years 1867-68. These are of interest as illustrating the relations of former Confederate leaders and their concern for Mr. Davis. Mason's comments on the treason proceedings are especially valuable. Abstracts of all of these letters are given below.

1867, May 14, Toronto, [Can.] J. M. Mason to Jefferson Davis.

I saw from the papers that you were to be in Richmond yesterday—sent a letter to you in care of Randolph Tucker at that place—thought he would have access to you as a member of your counsel and could give it to you—hope you received it—I find by this morning's papers that you were released on bail—is a great relief to know that you are at last at liberty “and under circumstances on which I confidently rely, that you will not again be molested”—I remained in England a year after the sad reverse in our fortunes—wrote often to O'Connor—found he did not have access to you—hope he told you of the letters, that you may know the concern of your friends—hope you may come to Canada—I see little prospect of returning to Virginia “and of all things I should desire once more to be with you, and to talk over what may be the future of our unhappy country”—personal affairs—residence at Niagara—advantages of St. Catherine's—it may be to you, as to me, a matter of some moment “to be and remain in a country, freed from the tyranny and brutality now dominant, at our once happy homes”—write at your leisure—regards—[P. S.] Address me in the name of “John C. Ambler, Esq.”—he is my little grandson. [May 16]—I hear you are en route to Montreal—Corse is to telegraph me of your arrival—will soon see you.

Letters sent you—enclose one from McRae—I gather from it that you should send over the bills you have in hand, both Nos. 1 and 2, and then the matter can be arranged by Brewer as McRae proposes—the transaction was placed in Brewer’s hands for safety—I think the best mode of remittance would be to send bills similar to those returned, payable to some friend whom you might name at Montreal—pardon these suggestions—I am much interested that the business should be safely transacted—hope you will visit us soon.

T." to Montreal—if he mentions the subject to me, I shall tell him what I told you on Benjamin's report to me in London—hope you can visit us—let me know how the trial goes.

Col. Helm is much disappointed at not having any response to his invitation for you to visit him—we yet hope you will come—I note what you say of your interview with "Jacob T."—was perhaps as well not to mention what I told you as coming from Benjamin—I shall tell him if he comes here—he has never been in this quarter—I heard he was twice in London while I was there, but did not know it until he was gone—hope the matter pending in Europe can be arranged—I have had nothing recently on the subject from McRae—enclosed you letters from Slidell and Mann—plans for the future—opinion of Johnson's policy—personal matters.

L. S. M₂-

1868, Nov. 6, Niagara, Ontario. J. M. Mason to Jefferson Davis.

We hear your trial is postponed until May that the Chief^{as}

Justice may be present—can rely but little on newspaper writers, but I credit this—it accords with my settled conviction that as the matter was under the control of the Chief Justice, “he dared not rule the offence imputed, Treason”—believed he never would allow a trial where he was to preside—hope you may not have to appear in Richmond—how this may be arranged—let us hear of any changes—Col. Helm says you are not to visit us—hope you yet may do so.

L. S. M₂-

1868, April. 22, Niagara, Canada [West.] J. M. Mason to Jefferson Davis.

Letters received—had not heard of your return to Canada—have observed the finding of a new indictment—have read the counts—“Those ignorant brutes who now govern affairs act so strangely, to delude the mob at their heels, that it is impossible to know the object of their movements—In one thing only are they consistent—pertinacity in malice. The real pinch is, and that which has led me always to believe they would never venture to try, that by no standard of law could they make out the crime of treason. The complicated and muddy idea now put out, of conspiracy to resist the laws, or to levy war, does in no sense modify the rule of law. Before the Federal tribunals, I should have no reliance on a defence, resting on a construction of the Government, or the Sovereignty of the States, however tenable in the minds of Jurists. The principle, which they can never get round, or get over, is, that whatever you did in wielding the Army, and whatever others did in counsel, were acts of war—immediately and at the time recognized as such, by all the authorities, civil and military, of the enemy—all the time authorized by a power competent in law, to conduct war, and entitling those bona fide so acting, to all immunities arising from acts of war and then comes the co-relative principle, that for such acts, the belligerent power is alone responsible, the individuals committing them, irresponsible. That the occasion was one of war, was recognized in the judgment of the Courts, including the Supreme Court, by the Executive, and by the Military, in consistent, uniform action, in every case presented, as well as by the unanimous declaration and acting, of every Power in Europe. The Cheif [sic] Justice stands committed to hold the Court before his Country, unless his presence is dispensed with by yourself, and whatever my opinion of the man, or of his complication with party, yet he stands at the head of the Judiciary, is undoubtedly an able lawyer, and responsible for the character and reputation of the Department over which he presides—and I thus have relied, and yet rely, that on such a trial, with the world looking on, he cannot rule that to be law, which he knows, and which the entire enlightened world is aware he knows, is not law. That he has shirked and evaded the Court at successive terms is undoubted, and could have had no reason to do so, but to evade this responsibility. Should they profess to be ready for trial in May, I trust that your counsel will have reasoned as I do, and will insist on the presence of the Cheif [sic] Justice as a right, to say nothing of his committals, direct and indirect, to preside, should the accused desire it. I have observed the proceedings in Congress in regard to the eligibility of persons who have expressed opinions—a measure in flagrant contempt of every principle of justice known to criminal jurisprudence—but my impression is, that though the Bill passed the House, it had not been finally acted on—the disgrace of negro jurors, is the disgrace of the brutes, who force it on the South. Recurring again to Chase, I should have the more hope of him because of his present political attitude—Whatever hopes he may have had of the Presidency, they are for present at least extinguished, and he to that extent remitted to independence. I think, too, his whole course whilst presiding on the impeachment, has shown him observant, and careful, of the dignities and duties of his position—manifestly independent of any party pressure. Bad as it all is, I am yet encouraged in the double aspect, first that there will be not trial, or if there is, that the Cheif Justice dare not pronounce it treason.” I cannot understand why you have to return to Richmond—the law in the case—gratified that O’Conor is “attentive and diligent” in your cause—the Richmond counsel can “supply sound views, connected with the locality"—prayers for your welfare—wish that I might be with you in Richmond—personal affairs.

1868, June 13, Niagara, Canada [West.] J. M. Mason to Jefferson Davis.

Regret at not hearing from you—doubt as to your whereabouts—disgrace of the administration in neither trying nor releasing you—cannot you visit us. We have a large and attractive Confederate circle—Genl. John S. Preston is here with his family—Breckinridge is expected—"I have nothing to say of things passing in the South—we have but one hope, that bondage will become too vile at the North, for even the vile to bear, & an internecine [sic] war there may follow—then we may come to our own."¹

¹ This letter concludes the correspondence between Mason and Davis as preserved in the Confederate Museum. Mason returned shortly to Virginia, and there, in 1871, death ended his interesting career. His biography has been written by his daughter, Virginia: The Public Life and Diplomatic Correspondence of James M. Mason. . . . (Roanoke, Va., 1903).

CONFEDERATE WAR MAPS.

The chief feature of this collection is the series of maps of the late Maj.-Genl. Jeremy F. Gilmer, Chief of Engineering Bureau, C. S. A. These maps, either originals from war surveys, or official contemporary copies, are chiefly of Virginia, and particularly of the Richmond and Petersburg defences. Many of them are beautifully executed, and all are well preserved. The printed maps are, for the most part, very roughly drawn. The official copies were made by a photographic process.

ANTE-BELLUM AND POST-BELLUM PAPERS.

The following papers have been selected from the Archives of the Museum as of special interest in connection with some phase of the war:

John Brown Raid.

1859, Nov. 23, Wheeling, Va. "F." to Col. A. M. Barbour, Harper's Ferry, Va. Confidential.

Hasten to transmit letter handed me by a friend—circumstances known to you and the Governor will enable you "to form an opinion which may have a tendency to prevent the contemplated attack. This would be the natural course for these fellows to pursue." Person attempted to mail the letter at Harper's Ferry—it got in the railroad mail and was brought here—details of its discovery.

A. L. n. S. T-22-1.

1859, Dec. 9, [Richmond, Va.,] Adj.-Genl's Office. Wm. H. Richardson, Adj.-Genl., to Genl. W. B. Taliaferro.

In reply to yours of the 7th, I am instructed to say that the Sheriff has jurisdiction of the jail—the military control the exterior guard—recommendation to the sheriff will throw the responsibility on him—your report of 7th received and approved—I sent detail for relief on the 6th—Anthony's Co. is to take the place of Borst's (Page Co., 97th Regt.,) found unprepared for service—efforts to procure overcoats.

A. L. S. T-22-3.

1859, Nov. 26, Charlestown, [Va.] John Scott, Capt. comdg. Post, to Genl. [W. B.] Taliaferro.

[Obliterated] . . . scouts for the day—each detail to be composed of three men—each party to extend its observations eight or ten miles on principal roads from Charlestown.

Chas. E. Lining, Assistant Surgeon, U. S. N.

Diary and Journal, Augst. 3rd, 1858, to Dec 31st, 1862. Lining was Asst. Surgeon on the U. S. frigate "Cyane" from Aug., 1858, to Dec. 10, 1860. He has regular entries for this period. The vessel sailed from Hampton Roads Sept. 24th, 1858, touching at Rio, and coasting the western coast of South America. Panama was reached March 11th, 1859. With the exception of a trip to San Francisco, June, 1860, the vessel remained in Central American and Mexican waters until the relief crew arrived, Dec. 10th, 1860. Lining then crossed the Isthmus, and reached New York on Christmas day, 1860. After leaving Panama the entries are fragmentary, appear to be in a different hand, and from the ink were all entered at the same time. Jany. 19th, 1861, his resignation in the United States Navy was accepted, and after serving for some weeks around Charleston, he was appointed Asst. Surgeon in the Confederate Navy, and sent to New Orleans. He engaged in various river escapades and minor fights, principally on the gunboat "Pontchartrain," Lieut.-Commander J. W. Dunnington, and on the gunboat "Tuscarora." The journal is of minor importance for events occurring while he was in the Confederate Navy during this period. Bound MS., pp. 144. 24.

"The Charge of the Crater, Personal recollections of participants in the Charge of the Crater at Petersburg, Va., July 30th, 1864." Contains 74 statements made in 1903 by survivors of Mahone's Brigade, Anderson's Division, A. P. Hill's Corps, Army of Northern Virginia. These statements agree with one another completely, except as regards the number of flags on the works and the speech of General Mahone before the charge. Col. Stewart collected them with the intention of writing a history of the charge. The most important statements are those of: Francis M. Whitehurst, Lieut., 6th Va.; Major Wm. H. Etheredge, comdg. 41st Va.; Major John T. Woodhouse, 16th Va.; John T. West, Lieut., 61st Va.; Lt.-Col. R. O. Whitehead, comdg. 16th Va.; James E. Phillips, Capt., 12th Va.; Major R. W. Jones, comdg. 12th Va.; and Lt.-Col. Wm. H. Stewart, comdg. 61st Va. 30.

PART TWO

BIBLIOGRAPHY OF SOME CONFED-ERATE PUBLICATIONS IN THE CONFEDERATE MUSEUM.

This Bibliography, as was stated in the Introduction, does not pretend to be comprehensive or final, and lists only those books and important pamphlets published or used in the Confederacy and now in the Confederate Museum. The books and pamphlets gathered by Mrs. Mary De Renne of Savannah, and known as the De Renne Collection, are the most valuable of the Library. At a time when Confederate publications were much more numerous and more easily acquired than at present, Mrs. De Renne, with rare judgment, gathered a collection of Confederate publications second to none in the country. Other private individuals have also made substantial gifts to the Library.

Owing to the limitations of the present volume, it has been impossible to include any extended critique on the various volumes listed, and, for the same reason, unimportant tracts, sheet music, and similar publications have been omitted altogether from this list. The Commission hopes, at a future time, to publish an exhaustive Bibliography of Confederate publications; but, in the meantime, it offers the following titles as a contribution towards such a Bibliography.

- I. Official Publications of the Government of the Confederate States of America.
- II. Official Publications of the Governments of Southern States.
- III. Unofficial Publications Relating to War Organization.

- IV. Contemporary History and Biography.
 - V. Literary Works.
 - VI. Confederate Text-Books.
 - VII. Political Miscellany.
 - VIII. Religious Publications.
 - IX. Periodicals.
 - X. Almanacs and Miscellaneous.
- I. OFFICIAL PUBLICATIONS OF THE GOVERNMENT OF THE CONFEDERATE STATES OF AMERICA.
- a. Legislative Publications.
 - b. War Department.
 - c. Other Departments.

¹³ This interesting volume was found in the haversack of Lieutenant-General T. J. Jackson, after he had been wounded at Chancellorsville.

¹⁴ The Begeaud referred to was T. R. Begeaud de la Piconnerie, Maréchal de France, Duc d'Isly, whose Memoirs (1789-1849) were edited, in 1884, by Comte H. d'Ideville. The editor of Jomini's Precis was probably the Paris edition of 1855.

¹⁵ Auguste-Frédéric-Louis Vieesse de Marmont (1774-1852), one of Napoleon's generals, was made Duc de Raguse in 1808, and Maréchal de France in 1809. He published his Esprit des Institutions Militaires in 1845. The best-known English edition of this work is that published in the Royal Service Journal, 1845, pt. 1, pp. 161-182, 370-387, 500-511; pt. 2, pp. 28-43, 221-228, 350-363. Marmont's Memoirs were published in 1856.

²⁰ Nothing better illustrates the impoverishment of the South than the deterioration in the quality of paper. Until 1862, the books published were printed on paper already in stock, and compared favorably with similar publications in the North. From that time paper became scarce, and its quality became very inferior.

VIII, The Dream. This begins:

"One night last week, I had a dream,
I may as well now give it,
I dream'd I saw old Abraham,
A-swinging on a gibbet;
And who do you think, boys, held the rope,
'Twas Mr. Jefferson Davis,
And as he pulled, old Abram cried
For a writ of corpus Habeas."

wood(?) cuts of the different states, uncolored.

Page 39: "Q. If the people of the United States had always elected good men for rulers what would have been the result?

A. We should have had no war.

Q. Why?

A. Because every man would have been willing to treat others justly, and there would have been no cause for war.

Q. Are these judgments for our sins alone?

A. They are partly for our sins, and partly for the sins of our forefathers.

Q. Then how shall we expect peace, since sin has brought war?

A. We must repent of our sins, and ask God to bless our efforts to defend our country.

Q. Why so?

A. Because, "If God be for us who shall be against us?"

²¹ The "Palmetto Geography" had a most interesting history. Convinced that a satisfactory geography could not be issued in the South, the publishers determined to have Mr. Stewart's book printed in England. Accordingly they sent the manuscript and $1,000 in gold to England. The book was printed in handsome style, and a few copies of it, sent to Virginia by the first blockade-runner, duly reached their destination. The rest of the edition, however, fared badly: the ship upon which it was sent was captured by the Federal blockading-squadron, and the edition was destroyed.

An enlargement of the "Geographical Reader" (supra). Part One is identical with the Reader, Part Two is an expansion of the text of the Reader, the maps are colored.

Page 29: [Reader, Tennessee] "7. Many hard battles have been fought here during the war for independence. But though she is oppressed now, and suffers much, no one fears for Tennessee. She is nobly doing her part, and when the war is ended, she will be one of our best States. Many pure spirits are praying for peace, and if we all humble ourselves as we should, we shall soon be blessed with the glorious news Peace! Peace!! Peace!!! O who will not appreciate Peace when it comes?"

Page 47: [Part II. Commerce.] Q. Has [sic] the Confederate States any commerce?

A. A fine inland commerce, and bids fair, sometime, to have a grand commerce on the high seas.

Q. What is the present drawback to our trade?

A. An unlawful blockade by the miserable and hellish Yankee Nation."²²

INDEX.

This Index includes in one alphabet, all names given in the text, and references to all subjects mentioned in the abstracts. Each letter is entered alphabetically under the names of the sender and of the receiver. Immediately after each name entry will be found the references to pages where that name occurs. Then follow in order, the letters written by that person, with the dates, the orders and endorsements by him, letters addressed to him, and lastly, particular references to him.

The abbreviations used are self-explanatory: e. g., "L to——," Letter addressed to——; "L. to: from——," Letter addressed to, from——; etc. All references are to pages, and are printed in black type, e. g., 432.
